The Priestly Interests of Moses the Levite
John W. Welch, with Jackson Abhau

Latter-day Saint scholars and their interlocutors have long puzzled over how to classify the Book of Moses found in the Pearl of Great Price. What is its religious heritage and typology? Is it spiritually marvelous, or transparently insignificant? How deep, or shallow, are its literary and doctrinal roots? Such questions are of the essence in deciding how to approach this book. We wish to approach these questions by entertaining the questions: What priestly interests are reflected in this book? Was Moses indeed a Levite? And, if so, should one think of the Book of Moses as the Book of Moses the Levite?

In terms of the origin of the Book of Moses, some may wish to view it simply as a fanciful nineteenth-century revision and expansion of the first eight chapters of the King James Version of the book of Genesis. Others may wish to characterize its coming forth as something more like what Blake Ostler or David Bokovoy have called “inspired pseudepigrapha,”¹ whatever that bipolar terminology might mean.

As we shall show and see, the Book of Moses is much more than those options would allow or offer. This book may at least be seen as an inspired interspersing of various ancient words, miscellaneous paleo-phrases and archaic episodes, into the traditional biblical creation account, as Avram Shannon has shown.² And, although the Joseph Smith Translation of the Bible—of which the Book of Moses is its opening part—may be seen, first and foremost, as “a revision and expansion of the Bible,” it still “never stops claiming to be the Bible,” as Shannon has observed.³ How deep might the roots of the Book of Moses run?

Following Hugh Nibley’s lead, the Book of Moses may be seen as a series of long-lost visions seen by Moses, situating Moses in the prophetic tradition and indeed as the greatest prophet Israel ever saw according to Deuteronomy 34:10.⁴ And regarding Moses 1 in particular, Nibley sees it as “a good example of an ascension text that could accurately be called the Ascension of Moses,” situating it further amidst an entire genre of “ascension dramas” found in the Testament of Abraham, the Testament of Isaac, the Narrative of Zosimus, and in the role of Levi in Joseph and Asenath, and in the Enoch literature, thus comprising a “basic scenario” found “far and wide”⁵ and often in temple settings. Thus, in its pages may be found a revealed restoration of a once intact version of a primal history about the beginnings of the human race upon this earth, filled with “temple themes,” as Jeffrey

Bradshaw has detailed,⁶ and its original intended role may have been for use in a liturgical temple setting, as David Calabro has explored.⁷

Whatever its origins, the text of the Book of Moses is far from simplistic, unremarkable, and irrelevant. It is fascinating, profound, and inspiring. It may contain doctrinal truths that were believed by the ancient prophets and should have been contained in Genesis 1–6, but were never previously committed to writing. By taking a new step toward understanding the Book of Moses, this paper seeks to find a fulcrum that may give us a point of leverage in moving forward amidst the array of fascinating and sometimes conflicting proposals and lines of inquiry regarding the character of this sacred work.

While the present study makes no claim to finality, we hope to shed further light on the nature of the Book of Moses by demonstrating affinities between the text and the priestly interests of Israel's Levitical tribe. This is not an entirely new idea, as various authors, including Hugh Nibley, Jeffery Bradshaw, and David Calabro have pointed out certain temple (and thus priestly) themes in the Book of Moses. This study, however, goes further by demonstrating that many specific priestly words and phrases and Levitical factors point towards Moses as the original composer of this book that bears his name.

To this end, we begin (1) by identifying Moses's personal backgrounds as a member of the tribe of Levi. Then, using some observations made by Old Testament source critics, this essay (2) posits a small set of details that characterize and populate the ancient Israelite priestly worldview. That set is then followed as a model throughout the text of the Book of Moses, (3) in order to highlight similarities between each section in the Book of Moses and putative priestly perspectives on such subjects as God, revelation, faithfulness, worship and many others. The study then (4) draws tentative conclusions about the priestly and non-priestly provenance of each section of the text of the Book of Moses and makes observations about the patterns in which the Book of Moses' unique (non-Genesis) materials appear. These patterns and numerous affinities with Levitical interests, while not enough to draw any absolute conclusions, plausibly suggest the possibility that a text such as the Book of Moses was the original underlying priestly text from which Genesis 1–6 was drawn, for it makes better sense, structurally, to see those priestly influences flowing from the Book of Moses into the book of Genesis than for the text of Genesis to have given rise to the resulting text of the Book of Moses the Levite.

Finally, by way of methodological explanation, on our view, the discovery of the two silver scrolls now on display in the Israel Museum—clearly written in minute paleo-Hebrew lettering coming from Jerusalem before 600 BC and the Babylonian Exile but containing the High Priestly blessing in Numbers 6:24-27—shows that priestly texts existed before Ezekiel and the Exilic Period. No doubt many texts were preserved or composed by Ezekiel (the High Priest) and others in Babylon; but they were working with much earlier materials, as they evidently gave us much of the final form of the Pentateuch. Our view is that it is possible that the Book of Moses, or something like it, was among those earlier texts and traditions.

When we go looking, therefore, for "priestly elements" in the Book of Moses, we do not assume that the original text of Book of Moses had to have been composed after the Exile.

Accordingly, the main contribution we hope that this study makes is to begin by accepting the historical identification of Moses as a Levite and then to see the Book of Moses as precisely the kind of book that an early Levite leader would have written. We offer four things that make it reasonable to assume that such a Levite would have been (1) zealously protective of holy things, God's priesthood and covenants; (2) oriented toward temple themes, priestly practices, and sacred knowledge; (3) interested in priestly terminology and issues (and in this regard we make use of the hypothetical P source heuristically as an acceptable model of what those priestly themes, terms, and concerns probably were), and finally (4) a Levite would also have been sympathetic with the kinds of social and religious duties that Levites traditionally came to fulfill (as one finds especially in Numbers, Deuteronomy, and 1 and 2 Chronicles). Then, by identifying these four things in the Book of Moses, we strive here to show that the Book of Moses is credible as a Levitical or priestly book consistent with the received fact that Moses himself was a Levite.

(1) Moses the Levite

Was Moses a Levite? What evidence is there that Moses was a Levite?

Although most people do not think of Moses this way, the biblical view of Moses' lineage is clear and simple. First, of Moses' parentage, the Bible says: "And there went a man of the house of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi. And the woman conceived, and bare a son” (Exod 2:1–2). Although nothing more is said about Moses’s father and mother, what is said here is all that mattered: Moses was remembered genealogically as a pure Levite, on both sides. Second, a few chapters later, a more extended genealogy is given in which Moses is designated as a great-grandson of Levi, through the line Levi, to Kohath, to Amram, to Moses (Exod 6:16–20, see also 1 Chr 6:1–3, 23:13).⁸ Third, in the intertribal conflict reported in Judges 17–18, a Levite who was a descendant of Moses named Jonathan is mentioned (Judg 17:7–13, 18:19–31).⁹ In view of these never contradicted evidences, Theophile Meek concludes: “There can be but one conclusion: the unanimous tradition of the Old Testament is that Moses was a Levite.”¹⁰ One might even see Moses’s leadership and his persona as a paragon of the prototypical High Priest, even above that of his brother Aaron.

Of course, many modern scholars, skeptical of the Bible's accuracy, have called even the historical Moses into question. One contemporary German-Protestant scholar at the University of Göttingen, Reinhard Kratz, writes, "Very little remains of the figure Moses that could be called historical with some degree of certainty."¹¹ A common critical interpretation is that Moses is a "mythical figure," around whom later Israelite tradition, legislation, and etiology coalesced.¹² However, this over-reading remains unconvincing to many. As John Bright famously observed, "The events of exodus and Sinai require a great personality behind them. . . . To deny that role to Moses would force us to posit another person of the same name!"¹³ If there is any historical truth to the story of the Exodus—of which there certainly is¹⁴—there must have been at least something of a Moses-figure.

Still, many others, while admitting Moses' existence, deny the biblical claims made about his life. Sigmund Freud, who, while no biblical scholar, has exerted tremendous influence on modern thought, considered Moses to have been an Egyptian official of the monotheistic pharaoh Akhenaten.¹⁵ Others scholars, both ancient and modern, also see Moses as an Egyptian.¹⁶ Ahmed Osman goes so far as to claim that Moses was Akhenaten himself!¹⁷ In the end, these conjectures are far more tendentious than the Exodus narrative itself. And thus, from the perspective of biblical scholarship alone, John Bright observes, because "we know nothing of [Moses'] career save what the Bible tells us, . . . attempts to reduce him are subjective in the extreme."¹⁸

And from the perspective of the Restoration by Joseph Smith, the Book of Mormon speaks often and unquestioningly about Moses as a historical figure (see 1 Nephi 4:2; 17:24, 30; 22:20-21; Mosiah 12:33; 13:5, 33), and in Doctrine and Covenants 8:3, the Lord states that it was by the spirit of revelation that Moses brought the children of Israel through the Red Sea on dry ground. In addition, the Doctrine and Covenants affirms that Moses was historical, and that he was ordained a priest by Jethro, connecting Moses with Abraham, Melchizedek, Enoch, and Adam (see D&C 84:6-14).

Thus there are reasons to accept the biblical report that Moses existed, that his name was Moses, and that the basic facts about his life and works have some historical credibility, and accordingly, the biblical evidence of Moses' Levitical heritage should also be presumptively accepted or assumed.

Were Levites Zealous? Although the reason for the Levites' ascension to the priesthood is not explicitly given in the Bible, it is often concluded by biblical scholars that the protective zeal of the Levites in connection with their punishment of offenders following the worship of the golden calf qualified them for their holy priesthood calling.¹⁹ As will be seen below, this characteristic of stalwart protectors emerges in the Book of Moses as well.

Defensive zeal seems to have been a hallmark of the Levitical heritage. The biblical story preserved about the Levi himself tells how he and his brother Simeon executed judgment upon the inhabitants of Shechem after the chieftain's son defiled their sister, Dinah (see Gen 34).²⁰ Perhaps building on this trait, the Levites are seen in the Bible as ones who channeled their power on behalf of God in protection of his holiness and his people.²¹

²⁰ For this, in his final blessing Jacob declared, "Simeon and Levi are brethren; instruments of cruelty are in their habitations... Cursed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel: I will divide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel" (Gen 49:5, 7). Both Simeon and Levi are admonished for their impulsive violence and are doomed to be scattered and divided among the other tribes. Jacob's prophecy accurately played out in Israel's history, albeit with disparate results for Simeon and Levi. Simeon seems to have been absorbed into Judah and largely forgotten, whereas Levi, upon receiving the inheritance of the priesthood, were distributed among the other tribes so that their ritual abilities might be accessible to all Israel. Levi's scattering was turned into a blessing and a privilege. To the Levites, the Lord declared: "Thou shalt have no inheritance in their land, neither shalt thou have any part among them: I am thy part and thine inheritance among the children of Israel" (Num 18:20). Jacob's prophecy was fulfilled—Levi truly was scattered among Israel—and yet, Levi received a great blessing. The Levites were to live among the other tribes, relying on their tithes for support, and spending their days in the service of the cult.

Indeed, the life of Moses is noted for its unflinching defense of his God and his people. As scenes painted on the long side wall of the Sistine Chapel recall:

He killed an Egyptian captain to prevent him from killing a Hebrew man (Exod 2:11–12), and then defended the flocks of Jethro in Midian.

He decisively summoned God's plagues, both in Egypt and in the wilderness (see Exod 7–12 and Num 11, 16), in order to get Pharaoh to let the Israelites go, and to instill strict obedience among the men of Israel in the wilderness (Exod 17, Num 21, 31).

When Moses returned from the top of Sinai to find Israel worshipping a golden calf, Moses “stood in the gate of the camp and said, “Who is on the LORD’s side? let him come unto me. And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together unto him” (Exod 32:26; emphasis added). The Levites thus became the instruments of God’s judgment, executing 3,000 offenders; and then they continued to serve for generations as the guardians and purveyors of the sacrificial and covenantal ceremonies that stood at the heart of ancient Israelite religious observances.

When he saw Korah and his sons usurping and perverting priestly authority, he intervened, and by an act of God “the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up together with Korah” (Num 26:10-11).

On another notable occasion, a Levite named Phinehas, one of Moses’ grand-nephews, took matters spontaneously into his own hands and thus “stayed” an impending plague from befalling Israel. He did this by impaling an Israelite man and his Midianite wife, who had entered into a prohibited relationship (Num 25:1, 8). The Levite Phinehas was rewarded by being given “the covenant of an everlasting priesthood . . . because he was zealous for his God” (Num 25:13).

Perhaps most indicative, when Moses, near the end of his life, blessed all the tribes of Israel in Deuteronomy 33, he extended a particular and powerful blessing to the Levites. He prayed that the Lord might let his “Thummim and Urim be with Your faithful [tribe of Levi], whom You tested at Massah [and] challenged at the waters of Meribah.” On those two (otherwise unreported) occasions, the Levite leader said, even of his own father and mother, “I consider them not,” and “his brothers he disregarded.” Moreover, he “ignored his own children. Your precepts [O Lord], alone they [the Levites] observed and kept your covenant” (Deut 33:8-9; see Tigay for comments on this translation). Several strong traditional Levitical characteristics are deeply embedded in this deuteronomic blessing, including Levitical connections with the High Priest’s use of the Urim and Thummim (lights and truths), because of their passing stringent tests of loyalty. When they were called upon by the Lord in the face of serious challenges, hardships, and murmurings, their devotion to God took priority over their duties to parents, brothers, and children. While family was, by all means, a close second, the Lord always came first in the minds of the Levites, suiting them to be the protectors of the Temple together with its eternal precepts and holiness.

As a result, Moses the Levite went on to bless his own loyal tribesmen with powerful Levitical privileges and duties. He granted them the rights to “teach” God’s laws to the whole house of Israel, to “offer” incense and offerings on God’s “altar,” to have God bless their “substance and their undertakings” with prosperity, and to see that their “enemies rise no more” (Deut 33:10; see Tigay for notes on these renditions). All of these functions and characteristics will thus become relevant in identifying as Levitical various words and texts in the Book of Moses.

Because some might wonder at this point how far back in history priestly sources and traditions may run, we think it is worth noting that people have greater reason today than ever before to agree that some priestly texts have roots that run well before the Babylonian Exile. The discovery of two tiny silver scrolls, with the High Priest’s blessing from Numbers 6 inscribed on them in paleo-Hebrew, from before 600 B.C., give us the oldest surviving example, now prominently on display in the Israel Museum, of any biblical text, and it is unquestionably a priestly text.

Levites and Priests? For purposes of our study, we do not distinguish between Levites and priests. Especially in the early days, the Levites and the priests exercised related, if not always overlapping, roles, and had a common interest in the holiness of the temple, as their means of support in lieu of a tribal share of land. While there appears to be some disagreement among the biblical texts themselves regarding the exact roles of priests and Levites—some texts insist that the Levites were fully-fledged functionaries like the priests, while others allow them only to assist the priests, the latter being limited to the descendants of Aaron (a subset of the tribe of Levi), and to have charge over the physical maintenance and upkeep of the Holy Things²²—the differences are mostly technical, not substantive, and thus in this study, the terms “priestly” and “Levitical” will be used more or less interchangeably in searching for priestly/Levitical interests in the Book of Moses.

The Documentary Hypothesis’s Priestly Source

These observations invite a few further comments about the P source reconstructed under the Documentary Hypothesis. Looking further to identify additional Levitical concerns, this study will make use of the findings of previous scholars, particularly in the works of source critics. The Documentary Hypothesis’s P source, purportedly the work of a priestly author (or group of authors), is especially relevant in articulating what the interests of priests and Levites were in ancient biblical times. For example, the P source is said to be interested in the effects of a cosmic, non-anthropomorphic God,²³ whose name yhwh is not revealed until Exodus 6:3. For the hypothesized priestly author, history is understood as an unfolding series of covenants and revelations between God and man, culminating with the revelations given at Sinai.²⁴ Genealogy, purity, and ritual were also prominent original themes in this priestly history.²⁵ Overall, the author conveys an overarching sense of cosmic order and balance.²⁶

For purposes of this present study, the observations of source critics about priestly interests are in general taken as well-founded if not self-evident, even if one does not accept the conclusions drawn by source critics about the Pentateuch's composition, a posture endorsed by B. H. Roberts over a century ago. Explaining the reliability of biblical scholarship to a lay audience, Elder Roberts remarked:

The methods of higher criticism are legitimate...[but] when one enters into the details of these methods, it is rather astonishing, at least it is to me, to see what heavy weights are hung upon very slender threads! The methods, then, of higher criticism we recognize as proper; but we must disagree as to the correctness of many of the conclusions arrived at by that method.²⁷

Similar concerns and caveats about the main conclusions based on the Documentary Hypothesis have been recently raised by Joshua Berman in his recent Oxford publication on the "limits of Source Criticism." He calls, for example, for greater use of the Tiberias computational linguistics project (which finds that all the language of the Torah is unmistakably pre-exilic) and also recommends “a thoroughgoing survey of chiasmus in the cognate literature of the ancient Near East,” which could offer “stronger comparative controls” over texts, such as the Flood narrative in Genesis 6-9, which is chiastically unified but also then problematically contains both P and non-P hypothesized sources.²⁸

Nevertheless, the Documentary Hypothesis is based upon many well-founded and well-researched observations about the text itself of the Pentateuch, which this study will gladly make use of, in spite of weaknesses.²⁹ While we may find some of these scholars’ literary and developmental assumptions faulty, this only casts doubt on their conclusions; it does not discredit their well-researched observations about objective details embedded in each segment of text. For this reason, one need not embrace all historical claims made in connection with the putative P source. For example, although in P there is no sacrifice before Aaron’s ordination,³⁰ sacrifice is clearly a universal priestly ideal in the ancient world. Therefore, in the Book of Moses, sacrifice before the time of Aaron can still be considered priestly. Let us now identify and examine some of these Levitical interests within the Book of Moses.

(2) Levitical Temple Interests Reflected in the Book of Moses

We now turn to the task of identifying various words or elements that can be identified generally as “Levitical interests,” which can also be located in the Book of Moses. We begin with temple elements, of which there are many. Anything connected with the Temple or temple themes qualifies as being of interest to Levites. In addition to the many temple elements which have been identified by others, we have spotted many others. For example:

Theophanic Formulae. If P’s transcendental deity is representative of larger priestly interests, we should expect the God of the Book of Moses to be similarly portrayed. But we should also expect reports of face-to-face interactions between God and humanity to be rare, we should also expect the vast gap between God and humanity to be emphasized, and we should expect God to communicate mainly mediated through his “voice” and his “words.”

Indeed, only two face-to-face theophanies are found in the Book of Moses, which in effect bookend the text. The first vision, in chapter one, is seen only by Moses, and the second vision, in chapter seven, is shown only to Enoch. Neither have any textual equivalent in Genesis. But on both occasions, the gap between God and man is highlighted (Moses 1:10; 7:29), while divine aid is offered to the prophet, which allows him to endure the transcendent divine presence and withstand the power of God’s glory (1:2, 11, 31; 7:23–24). Both prophets are overwhelmed by the infinite number of God’s creations (1:27–30; 7:30). And both receive a vision of “all things,” including the final destiny of the world (1:27–35; 7:67). These theophanies qualify as priestly experiences, perhaps not the kind of thing that ordinary priests would experience but certainly the massively overwhelming experience of the High Priest in the presence of God in the Holy of Holies.

Beyond these two unusual occasions, God's behavior elsewhere in the Book of Moses is even more distant and reserved, as one also would expect from P. The words "voice" and "word" or "words" appear seventeen times each in the book, referring to the typical manner in which God mediates his will also in P,³¹ albeit not exclusively in P. Conversely, when humanity needs to communicate with God, the typical supplication formula is "call upon God," although for Enoch, it is typically "cry unto the Lord." God is also often encountered in an esoteric or cultic context. The phrases "before," or in the "presence of," and "face of" God, which occur a combined twenty-five times in Moses, all likely derive from an original lipnē [yhwh/ʾēlōhīm], and more than half of these phrases of divine manifestation are in sections that are original to the Book of Moses text, not being found in Genesis. Menahem Haran argues that this Hebrew phrase lipnē [yhwh/ʾēlōhīm] often connotes a cultic setting.³² While the Book of Moses does not recount the building of any temples or even altars (except by Adam), the phrase "before the Lord" likely indicates that priestly ceremonial activity is an going on throughout all stages of this text.

Divine Names. Another hallmark of P is its presentation of the divine names used to call upon God in ritual settings. Following Exodus 6:3, most scholars of the Documentary Hypothesis argue that in P God is first introduced as 'ēlōhīm, then he is known at his covenant with Abraham as 'ēl šadday, and finally, with Moses, as yhwh.³³ While we have no obligation to rigidly adopt this chronological compartmentalization of these divine names,³⁴ it is intriguing to note that all three of P's divine names make multiple appearances in the Book of Moses—counting 'ēlōhīm as “God” (134 times), while 'ēl šadday appears 3 times as “God Almighty” or “Lord God Almighty,” and yhwh appears 95 times as “Lord,” with an additional 39 occurrences of yhwh 'ēlōhīm as “Lord God.” As a rule, the units with unique Book of Moses material generally use the same divine names as the Genesis materials by which they are immediately surrounded. In addition, more names are introduced in Moses 2:1 (the Beginning and the End, the Almighty God); in 6:57 (Man of Holiness); and in 7:35 (Man of Holiness, Man of Counsel, Endless, Eternal), showing further that the names of deity are a major preoccupation of the Book of Moses (as it is also for P).

(3) Levitical Terms Present in the Book of Moses

Several categories of terms in the Book of Moses correspond to putative priestly interests, consistent with the designations for these sources by several Hebrew lexicons, particularly Brown-Driver-Briggs. They include notes on the documentary sources usually associated with various Hebrew words, adding the letters J, E, H, or P in parentheses with the biblical references under each of the definitions listed.

³⁴ The assumption may, in fact, be built upon a misreading of Exodus 6:3. Some scholars, although they are in the minority, argue that the last clause of the verse should be read as a rhetorical question: “Was I not known to them?” See the summary of this position in Jared C. Hood, “I Appeared as El Shaddai: Intertextual Interplay in Exodus 6:3,” WTJ 76 (2014): 168.

Perhaps the most prominent group of priestly words is associated with creation. Creation is often assumed to be a priestly interest,³⁵ and while it is already a prominent theme in Genesis 1–6, the additional Moses material reinforces its importance. Moses 1, which only contains unique material, is focused on the purpose of creation. Unique Moses materials also appear within the parallel creation accounts in Genesis 1–2 (and Moses 2–3), and they provide priestly emphases. In the first creation account (Gen 1:1–2:3/Moses 2:1–3:3, attributed to P), for example, the unique Moses material often clarifies that the creation was accomplished through the power of God’s word (Moses 2:5, 6, 7, 11, 16, 30). In the second creation account (Gen 2:4–25/Moses 3:4–25, attributed to J), the unique material explains the concept of a prior spiritual creation (Moses 3:5, 7, 9) and introduces the idea of “spheres” of creation (Moses 3:9), which, although in a text traditionally attributed to a non-priestly source, fits in very well with the priestly ideals of order and creation.

This interest in order is manifested in other ways in the Book of Moses. Time is divided accordingly to divinely-ordained epochs, demarcated by phrases like “the beginning,” “the meridian of time,” “the end of the world,” and “thousand years.” This cosmic time-division is especially prominent in Enoch’s vision in Moses 7. The idea of a priesthood “order” is found in Moses 6:67 and 8:19. Genealogies are also kept in order in Moses, even in a Book of Remembrance (6:5, 46). While the unique material does not add any figures to the Genesis' genealogies, Moses 6:5–8 explains the divine motivation behind the keeping of Adam's genealogy.

³⁵ Gorman, Ideology of Ritual, 60.

DRAFT

Two other important priestly interests—glory and holiness—are prominent in the Book of Moses. “Glory,” kābôd, in various forms, occurs 22 times in Moses. Perhaps the greatest interest of P is God's holiness—qôdēš—and its maintenance. The programmatic passage of Leviticus, the priestly book par excellence, is 19:2: “Ye shall be holy: for I the LORD your God am holy.” “Holy” in its various forms makes 18 appearances in the Book of Moses. The city built by Enoch is described as the “City of Holiness” and as the “Holy City.” A twice-introduced epithet for God is “Man of Holiness.” No better name could be conjured for the transcendent, sacrosanct God of Leviticus. And in addition, to the foregoing terms, several other obvious terms relating to priestly interests are found in the book of Moses, especially “priesthood” (Moses 6:7), “holy ordinance” (5:59), and “ordained” (8:19). These terms are not among those highlighted by scholars on the P source discussing the Genesis material, but probably because these terms are not found in Genesis. So the book of Moses is even more priestly than the P source as preserved in the received text of Genesis.

On the other end of the holiness spectrum, P is concerned about agents of pollution that can defile holy things. Many of these possible pollutants, such as “wickedness” (1:23; 5:31; 7:36, 41, 46, 48, 60; 8:22), “sin” (5:15, 23; 6:54, 55, 59; 7:1, 37, 39; 8:24), “transgression” (5:10, 11; 6:52, 53, 59) “corrupt[ion]” (8:28, 29), “bloodshed” (6:15; 7:16), and “filthiness” (7:48), among others, are major concerns in the Book of Moses. These pollutants are found in the Genesis text, but their presence is much more immanent and their defiling effect more explicit in the Moses material.

(4) Levitical Duties Reflected in the Book of Moses

The Duty of Zeal. As discussed above, the Levites' defining virtue was their zeal in defending the holy things, even at high cost to family and property. Righteous zeal comes into play early in the Book of Moses, when, in the first chapter, Satan confronts Moses amid his theophany. In response to Satan's demand for worship, Moses replies: "Depart from me, Satan, for this one God only will I worship, which is the God of glory" (Moses 1:20). Moses' reaction certainly demonstrates the adamant zeal for the God of Israel that was typical of the Levites.

Later in the text, Enoch is forced to defend his people against their enemies by means of warfare: "He led the people of God, and their enemies came to battle against them" (Moses 7:13). Blessed with the power of God, Enoch is able to repel the wicked and deliver his people. After his victory, the text relates: "From that time forth, there were wars and bloodshed among [all the people that fought against God] but the Lord came and dwelt with his people" (7:16). Here, Enoch was not fighting a war of aggression, but was diligent to protect God's work.

Violence figures in the final verses of the Book of Moses in connection with abominable state of the wicked. God, seeing the sinful state of the earth, resolves to destroy mankind with the Flood and start over. Of particular concern to God is the fact that the earth is "filled with violence" (mentioned twice, Moses 8:28, 30). This word for violence, ḥāmās, nearly always has a negative connotation.³⁶ Here it is used to identify an evil and corrupting force, and it was the eminent reason for God’s own regrettable but necessary destruction of humanity. These two instances of “violence” are also found in Genesis 6:11, 13, in a section that is attributed to the P source.

Levitical Functional Duties. As pronounced in Moses’ blessing to the tribe of Levi in Deuteronomy 33, and as can be documented in many books in the Hebrew Bible, the Levites discharged many duties in their functional service to their God. Without describing these in any detail, we have compiled a list of 24 main Levitical duties.³⁷ Although the specific functional duties on this list are not always commensurate with verbal content found in the Book of Moses, many of the practices or responsibilities on this list can be associated in general with counterparts mentioned in the Book of Moses. These are presented below, duty by duty:

- Presiding over worshipping and especially making inquiries to God (LPBHT 182)³⁸

[God commands Moses to call upon God in the name of his Only Begotten and worship him (Moses 1:17); Moses prays and calls upon God (1:30); Adam and Eve call upon the name of the Lord and hear the voice of the Lord (5:4); Enoch prays and calls unto the Lord (7:54, 59); Noah calls upon the Lord (8:26). The word “worship” appears 9x in the Book of Moses.]

- Singing and providing music in the Temple (1 Chron 25; 2 Chron 5:12; 34:12).

[The Psalms are filled with blessings; “bless” appears 17x in the Book of Moses.]

- Standing to pray, thank and praise God every morning and evening (1 Chron 23:30)

[In the Book of Moses, “morning” and “evening” appear nine times in the creation material; Enoch stands upon the hills and high places (6:37), but the ordinary people cannot stand in the presence of God (6:47).]

- Enabling and recognizing the presence of God amidst the people.

[The “presence” of God, or of the Lord, or of the Lord God, is a dominant feature, appearing six times in the Book of Moses.]

- Serving as guardians of the ark of the covenant (Deut 10:8)

[The word “covenant” appears five times in Moses, along with swearing and making solemn oaths to God.]

- Transporting and handling of cultic items (Num 3-4; 8:5-22)

- Caring for the Temple courts, rooms, store-houses and treasuries (1 Chron 23:28)

DRAFT

[A highlight in the Book of Moses is when Enoch implored his people to create a temple-city of Zion and to generously share with all that there would be “no poor among them” (Moses 7:18), implying the use of storerooms to hold and distribute excess contributions and devoted gifts.]

- Guarding the gates of the Temple (1 Chron 26:1-19)

[Moses 7:53 reassures “whoso cometh in at the gate and climbeth up by me shall never fall,” which is an allusion to the importance of the temple gates and restricted access into the mountain of the Lord.]

- Acting as builders in repairing the Temple (2 Chron 34:8-13)
- Cleansing the holy vestments, vessels, and pots (1 Chron 23:28)

[Being “cleansed by blood” (Moses 6:59) and “cleansed from the filthiness” (7:48) are urgent concerns in the Book of Moses.]

- Ensuring no impurities from blood, corpse contamination, unlawful mixings or other defilements.

[Such concerns saturate the Book of Moses: “blood” and “bloodshed” appear eleven times; “abominations,” three times; and “wickedness,” twelve times. They are strictly decried in the Book of Moses, except in a holy sacrificial context of being “cleansed by blood, even the blood of mine Only Begotten” (Moses 6:59).]

- Overseeing burials, venerating tombs, and warding off evil spirits.

DRAFT

["Death" (six times), evil (seven times), and the Devil (three times) make their undesirable presence potently known in the Book of Moses.]

- Regulating standards of measurement (1 Chron 23:29)
[As in the Genesis account, the Book of Moses is concerned about establishing the set times of days and nights (2:16-18), especially so that the Sabbath and other holy days could be observed on the proper and required days and seasons.]
- Setting out the shewbread (1 Chron 23:29) and preparing flour for offerings.
- Slaughtering the sacrificial animals and serving the people (Ezek 44:6-14)
[Proper and acceptable sacrifices are seriously, though only three times, mentioned in Moses 5:6-7; 6:3.]
- Making burnt offerings as required (1 Chron 23:31)
[Offerings (six times) and sacrifices (three times) play significant roles in the Book of Moses. And perhaps baptism not just "with fire" but also with the Holy Ghost (Moses 6:66) foreshadowed the burnt offerings that were required for atoning sacrifices under the law of Moses.]
- Collecting the annual temple tax, tithing, and donations to the temple (Neh 10:38-39).
- Functioning as temple agents in secular settings (Ezek 44:11; 46:24).
- Rendering medical services (Lev 13:2; 14:2; see also Luke 17:14).
- Teaching the law (Deut 17:18-20; 24:8; 33:10; 2 Chron 17:7-9; 35:3; Neh 8:7)

DRAFT

[Having the holy records, the children of Adam and Eve, “were taught to read and write, having a language which was pure and undefiled” (Moses 6:6).]

- Judging and acting as officers of the law (1 Chron 23:4; 2 Chron 19:8, 11)

[The Book of Moses speaks of Christ being “a righteous judge” (6:57), “the record in heaven,” and “judgment” (7:57, 66).]

- Serving as scribal and administrative mediators (LPBHT 2)

- Acting as scribes in copying holy scripture (LPBHT 222-23; 2 Chron 34:13)

[The children of Adam and Eve, “were taught to read and write, having a language which was pure and undefiled” (Moses 6:6).]

- Overseeing the temple library and interpreting scripture (LPBHT 220-222)

Thus, several of the interests, concerns, and duties of the Levites find frequent and sometimes dominant echoes in the revelations, visions, prophecies, and narratives included in the relatively short Book of Moses.

Levitical Content in the Book of Moses

Turning now to the full text of the Book of Moses, many passages in the Book of Moses manifest a clear overall interest in priestly matters as those elements are typically defined by scholars working within the textual divisions utilized under the Documentary Hypothesis. We use the assumptions of the Documentary Hypothesis without taking any position regarding its historical strengths and weaknesses. As mentioned above, while our project is independent of the Documentary Hypothesis and does not hinge on its validity, we have made use of its typical scheme of identifying elements that characterize texts as Priestly (including Levitical and Holiness), Jahwistic, or Elohist, to help readers connect the segments of the Book of Moses with the classification of all the comparable portions of the book of Genesis.

In order to show the extent to which priestly materials appear throughout the Book of Moses, we have formatted (in Appendix 1 below) the full text of the Book of Moses, into 66 units. Following the Key at the beginning of Appendix 1, green all-capped subheadings indicate which units are generally found to be Priestly in nature. Black bolded words appear in the Book of Moses but do not appear in Genesis. Coded in yellow words with priestly connotations in Moses that are not found in Genesis, and in red are words with priestly connotations that appear both in Moses and also in Genesis. All of this data can be studied in detail or can be appreciated in overview at a glance.

Computational results of the 136 priestly elements that are highlighted in Appendix 1 are then totaled and presented in alphabetical order in Appendix 2, showing in parentheses how often each term appears. In Appendix 3, they are further arranged in increasing order of their numerical appearances, and finally, they are extracted and organized in Appendix 4 in the scriptural order in which they appear within each textual unit. As Appendix 4 shows, almost all of these 66 units employ strong priestly vocabulary. Only two have no priestly terms; five have only one; seven have two; and five have three. But the 47 other units each contain four or more, and in most cases, many more.

DRAFT

To help readers to process and absorb all this data, we consider now, at this point, the entire Book of Moses, chapter by chapter, to show the extent to which they can be identified as priestly.

In Moses chapter 1, while Moses' visible theophany isn't a hallmark of priestly texts, the vision's main subject matter—namely the purpose and destiny of creation—as well as its transcendent description of God, place this chapter even more squarely within the scope of Levitical interests. The same applies to Enoch's vision in chapter 7, allowing both chapters 1 and 7 to be classified as priestly.

Priestly material continues on into chapter 2, as the equivalent Genesis 1 passage is traditionally assigned to P.

In chapter 3, at Moses 3:4 (Gen 2:4), a long section usually attributed to J begins. However, the Book of Moses' unique material interpolates Levitical material often enough to imbue most of the second creation account with priestly interests.

Highly priestly in character is the fascinating account at the beginning of chapter 4, of the premortal commissioning of the first son, the Only Begotten, and the casting down of Satan, the second son (Moses 4:1-4). The questions of authority, where it comes from, and why it is given, are essential to the legitimacy of anyone purporting to act efficaciously in the name of God (see 4:3). Unfortunately, Satan's offer to be God's "son," to "redeem" all mankind, and to have the "honor" was thoroughly egotistic. He used the words "I" and "me" six times (4:1), whereas the offer of the first and beloved son was to do God's "will" and to give him the glory "forever" (4:2). Elements such as these, involving the proper using the power, vigilantly protecting “the glory,” and strictly hearkening to “the voice” of God are thoroughly priestly, as Moses the Levite would have especially appreciated.³⁹

DRAFT

With the Fall of Adam and Eve, priestly interests become more subdued for a time. Moses 4:7–29 differs little from the Genesis text, and most of the additions here are purely grammatical, clarifying ambiguous verbal subjects and objects.

After the expulsion from the Garden of Eden, however, the Book of Moses returns to Levitical interests, as Adam and Eve offer sacrifices under divine instruction, reported in considerable detail. The ensuing Cain narrative is clarified by unique material that introduces both divine and satanic agency, as well as priestly themes of holiness and glory, into the conflict between these two brothers. Cain’s covenant with Satan, on the one hand, and the preaching of the gospel, on the other hand, both unmentioned in Genesis and both with Levitical overtones, dominate the rest of chapter 5.

Chapter 6 recounts the keeping of Adam’s genealogy—an undisputed priestly interest—and the call of Enoch. Prophecy is rare in P, but the subjects of Enoch’s preaching—atonement, blood, holiness, and cleanliness before God—are all congruent with a Levitical worldview.⁴⁰

Chapter 7’s expansive vision, as already discussed above, is also priestly in scope.

³⁹ Jesus also, as the new Moses in the gospel of Matthew, makes use of this very scenario in answering the challenge of the Chief Priests to tell them where he got his authority to speak and act for God and who gave it to him. See John W. Welch, “Symbolism in the Parable of the Willing and Unwilling Two Sons in Matthew 21,” in J. Spencer Fluhman and Brent L. Top, eds., Let Us Reason Together (Provo: BYU Religious Studies Center, 2016), 97-116.

⁴⁰ Stephen E. Geller, “Blood Cult: Toward a Literary Theology of the Priestly Work of the Pentateuch,” Proof 12 (1992): 97–124.

DRAFT

And finally, chapter 8 corresponds to Genesis 6, which is classified as a composite J/P text by source critics. The unique material—interrupting the J portion of the chapter—informs us that, “the Lord ordained Noah after his own order” (Moses 8:19), which has obvious priestly implications and allows us to denominate the chapter as a whole as Levitical.

Considered numerically, Appendix 2 then shows 136 priestly terms found in the Book of Moses and highlighted in Appendix 1. Appendix 3 shows some intriguing distributions of priestly words that reinforce the emphasis place in the Book of Moses upon certain priestly interests in particular. The numbers of these word frequencies may or may not have numerological significance, but ancient scribes kept track of such things and ancient cosmologists were intrigued by numerical harmonies and confluences. But for our purposes here, we simply want to call attention to these repeatedly used words that were significant from a Levitical point of view. By far the most commonly used words, all of which are priestly, are:

glory/gloried/glorified (22x);

world/worlds (20x, twice the perfect number 10);

voice (18x, emphasizing the voice of God);

bless/blessed, seed (16x).

As a curiosity, but worth noting, several numbers that were distinctly meaningful in priestly and later Kabbalistic texts, happen to appear on the tabulation given in Appendix 2:

5 (having to do with generosity, love and kindness);

DRAFT

7 and 14 (pertaining to completion, creation, dwelling, the words of God, and the seriousness of the curse for unrighteousness);

10 (the number of perfection and holiness, with “Holy Ghost” and the “presence [of God]” appearing in Moses exactly ten times;

12 (the number of governing, with “name [of God/the Lord]” and “power/powerful” occurring twelve times each.

Intriguingly, all the numbers from 1 to 10 are represented in the tabulation of these verbal occurrences. And then all the even numbers from 12 to 22 are on this list, while none of the odd numbers are there. The only word that appears more than 22 times is “created,” which appears 32 times (which is 2 times 2 times 2 times 2 times 2).

While we counted these words simply to get a better sense of which words carried repeated significance in the Book of Moses, these numerical results may be more than merely accidental. Priests, indeed, were very concerned with dates, Sabbath Days, sabbatical years, numbers of times to sprinkle the blood, counting amounts of votive offerings, and measuring and weighing produce and temple taxes. Whether symbolically meaningful or not, the high density of all of these terms—many of which were of importance in priestly texts—strengthens the primary Levitical character of this book of Moses the Levite.

The Presence of Non-Levitical Material in the Book of Moses

At the same time, as seen in Appendix 1, a few elements of the Book of Moses are decidedly non-Levitical according to the generally hypothesized criteria. Indeed, several themes that are absent from the presupposed P are prominent in the Book of Moses. Perhaps the most striking of these, mentioned above, is prophecy.

DRAFT

Prophecy, which is almost totally absent (or excluded) from P,⁴¹ is very important in the Book of Moses (see, for example, Moses 5:10; 6:8, 13, 23, 37, 38; 7:2, 7; 8:3, 16).

But we hasten to mention again that Moses was both a Levite and at the same time was considered to have been one of the greatest prophets (Deuteronomy 34:10), and so one might expect to find themes from both later scribal schools in a book more personally related to him.

Moreover, both the word and concept of grace, hēn, is foreign to P, which sees the sacrificial cult as the only means of propitiating deity.⁴² However, RECIPROCAL grace is pervasive in the Book of Moses, both as a larger concept (Moses 5:9; 6:53; 7:50–1) and as a key term (1:6, 32; 5:7; 6:52; 7:11, 59; 8:27). And we have already discussed P's tendency to avoid anthropomorphism, which is not shared by all of the Book of Moses. While the modern concepts of grace and anthropomorphism are foreign to P, but the more ancient idea of "reciprocal grace" is not absent here, and the real concern about anthropomorphism is to insure that it does not lead to images and idol worship, which is guaranteed by the true order of worship instituted in the Book of Moses.

These themes do not automatically discount a priestly provenance for the Book of Moses, but they serve to caution us all about drawing any conclusions with too broad a brushstroke. At the same time, the presumptive Priestly and Non-Priestly categories need not always be mutually exclusive.

Additions to or Subtractions from Genesis by the Book of Moses

While passages attributed to P, J, R, and other sources are found in Genesis 1–6,⁴³ it is intriguing to note that most of the material unique to the Book of Moses could be classified as Priestly. This unique material is not distributed evenly throughout the book. Chapters 1, 6, and 7 contain completely all, or virtually all, unique material. In chapters 2–4, the material is often found in place of implied verbal ideas (often changing the tense of an implied “to be” verb) and clarifying ambiguous verbal subjects. Since Hebrew is often ambiguous and relies heavily on implication, it is difficult to tell if this particular Moses material is restoring missing ideas or supplying new information. In chapter 5, the unique material imputes Satanic agency to Cain’s actions and draws attention to Satan’s unholy oaths and covenants with wicked mankind. And chapter 8’s material describes Noah as a preacher of the gospel of Jesus Christ, “ordained... after [God’s] own order” (Moses 8:19).

The unique material most often interrupts texts attributed to J. Texts attributed to P, which are already recognized to have a concern for Levitical interests, are more lightly touched by the Book of Moses’ interpolations. Interestingly, the Book of Moses’s unique material restores priestly material into ⁴³ Using the nomenclature adopted by Richard Elliott Friedman, The Bible with Sources Revealed: A New View into the Five Books of Moses (New York: HarperCollins, 2003).

DRAFT

places in texts attributed to the non-priestly J source. Thus, it may have been the case that Levitical or priestly materials, something like these elements found today in the Book of Moses, were deleted from the most archaic versions of the primal history in Genesis.

Since Genesis 1-6 is clearly a much shorter text than Moses 1-8, one might ask why the scribes at work on producing Genesis might have wanted or needed to shorten a longer Urtext such as the Book of Moses? Several reasons come to mind:

(a) The shorter text would have worked much better for popular consumption among the Jews, and would have facilitated instruction and memorization.

(b) Perhaps the compilers wanted to give more overall balance or preference to materials in the J, E, R, or H, or other sources they might have wanted to include in Genesis or the Pentateuch, and thus needed to make sure that the pre-Abrahamic sections of this book of beginnings were not too long.

(c) Given the fact that the Levitical and priestly materials would have been primarily of interest to only a fraction of the overall Israelite population, the abridgers might have intentionally decided on that ground against including any more. Indeed, the Book of Moses provides its own prediction and explanation for the future loss of such portions of the text, namely that “the children of men shall esteem my words as naught [as not important, not useful, as no longer significant or relevant] and take many of them from the book which thou shalt write” (Moses 1:41).

DRAFT

(d) In addition, seeing these differences between the Book of Moses and Genesis as deletions by a proto-Genesis account might be further explained by the sacred nature of some of the passages in the Book of Moses. For example, Moses 1 was protected and not to be shared secularly among the children of men (Moses 1;42). And other priestly matters speak of sacred places and duties that probably were maintained within the confines of the holy sanctuary.

(e) And perhaps the elevated ideals in the Book of Moses of strict righteousness, resisting evil, the cooperation between husband and wife, the goal of achieving a Zion community, even on Mount Zion, might have been politically out of reach and thus embarrassing during times of wickedness.

In sum, in light of the sheer complexity of the data presented here, it might even be easier on practical grounds to imagine that something like the Book of Moses existed before the Book of Genesis, than to account for the complete array of interspersings of Levitical and priestly materials throughout the Book of Moses and to see that particular family of materials as accretions to the first six chapters of Genesis.

Conclusions

Is it possible to determine whether the Book of Moses relies on Genesis or if a text something like the Book of Moses was an underlying Urtext behind Genesis? Alone, the data we have collected and analyzed is not enough to make a definitive claim for textual originality in either direction. Nonetheless, this study has demonstrated that much of the Book of Moses betrays a solid interest in priestly concerns and has also shown that such concerns would have likely been important to the historical Moses, whom one with some confidence may assume was himself a Levite. Not everything in the Book of Moses is congruent with the interests of the hypothetical P source, but much of its unique material has Levitical connections that have not been previously noted or assessed.

These intriguing connections tie the prophet, priest, and man Moses to the Latter-day Saint book of scripture that bears his name. We and others have uncovered several very ancient-looking materials in the on-going and extensive course of study of the Book of Moses. Still, most non-Latter-day Saint scholars (as well as some scholars within the Latter-day Saint community) see enough potential anachronisms—especially the early mentions of the gospel and name of Jesus Christ—in the text to raise doubts about regarding it as ancient.

Nevertheless, if the Book of Moses were not to contain these Levitical elements, some critics would probably also ask, how can this book possibly have originated with Moses, given his putative Levitical connections? At least that concern may now be curtailed.

Moreover, these findings also underscore the unlikelihood that this text just originated with Joseph Smith. At a minimum, Joseph would have needed to know a lot about what it meant to be, act, think, speak, write, live and serve like a priest or Levite in order for him to have thought of Moses, of Adam and Eve, or Enoch, in these particular modes, and to have then produced this Levite-like priestly book. The resultant text speaks for itself, going well beyond that which had been articulated in 1830 about documentary sources or priestly terminology.

DRAFT

Whether one assumes that the Book of Moses was recorded in its resultant form during Moses's lifetime (perhaps by Aaron), or instead (for sake of argument) was composed (orally or in writing) early (or perhaps later) during a time in the First Temple period, or at some other time when Levites were at a highpoint in their religious duties and influence, the findings we present in this paper and in the appendices below show that this book, in many fundamental ways, fits comfortably and extensively into a Levitical domain and context. It rightly honors and reflects the magnificence of the religious, spiritual, and theological visions of Moses, the greatest prophet, priest, and leader Israel ever knew. While this study is not likely to completely shift the thinking of many minds about the processes at work in its coming forth, we hope that all readers of the Book of Moses the Levite will be open to the new interpretive doors which this approach, among others, newly affords for those seeking to better understand and enjoy the Book of Moses, textually, historically, linguistically, and spiritually.

Theophany, God appears to Moses

Moses 1 (no Genesis equivalent)

1:1 The words of God, which he spake unto Moses at a time when Moses was caught up into an exceedingly high mountain,

1:2 And he saw God face to face, and he talked with him, and the glory of God was upon Moses; therefore Moses could endure his presence.

1:3 And God spake unto Moses, saying: Behold, I am the Lord God Almighty, and Endless is my name; for I am without beginning of days or end of years; and is not this endless?

1:4 And, behold, thou art my son; wherefore look, and I will show thee the workmanship of mine hands; but not all, for my works are without end, and also my words, for they never cease.

1:5 Wherefore, no man can behold all my works, except he behold all my glory; and no man can behold all my glory, and afterwards remain in the flesh on the earth.

1:6 And I have a work for thee, Moses, my son; and thou art in the similitude of mine Only Begotten; and mine Only Begotten is and shall be the Savior, for he is full of grace and truth; but there is no God beside me, and all things are present with me, for I know them all.

1:7 And now, behold, this one thing I show unto thee, Moses, my son, for thou art in the world, and now I show it unto thee.

Creation, Moses sees the world, its extent and purposes, and populace

1:8 And it came to pass that Moses looked, and beheld the world upon which he was created; and Moses beheld the world and the ends thereof, and all the children of men which are, and which were created; of the same he greatly marveled and wondered.

1:9 And the presence of God withdrew from Moses, that his glory was not upon Moses; and Moses was left unto himself. And as he was left unto himself, he fell unto the earth.

1:10 And it came to pass that it was for the space of many hours before Moses did again receive his natural strength like unto man; and he said unto himself: Now, for this cause I know that man is nothing, which thing I never had supposed.

1:11 But now mine own eyes have beheld God; but not my natural, but my spiritual eyes, for my natural eyes could not have beheld; for I should have withered and died in his presence; but his glory was upon me; and I beheld his face, for I was transfigured before him.

Satan unsuccessfully tempts Moses to worship him

1:12 And it came to pass that when Moses had said these words, behold, Satan came tempting him, saying: Moses, son of man, worship me.

1:13 And it came to pass that Moses looked upon Satan and said: Who art thou? For behold, I am a son of God, in the similitude of his Only Begotten; and where is thy glory, that I should worship thee?

1:14 For behold, I could not look upon God, except his glory should come upon me, and I were transfigured before him. But I can look upon thee in the natural man. Is it not so, surely?

DRAFT

1:15 Blessed be the name of my God, for his Spirit hath not altogether withdrawn from me, or else where is thy glory, for it is darkness unto me? And I can judge between thee and God; for God said unto me: Worship God, for him only shalt thou serve.

1:16 Get thee hence, Satan; deceive me not; for God said unto me: Thou art after the similitude of mine Only Begotten.

1:17 And he also gave me commandments when he called unto me out of the burning bush, saying: Call upon God in the name of mine Only Begotten, and worship me.

1:18 And again Moses said: I will not cease to call upon God, I have other things to inquire of him: for his glory has been upon me, wherefore I can judge between him and thee. Depart hence, Satan.

1:19 And now, when Moses had said these words, Satan cried with a loud voice, and ranted upon the earth, and commanded, saying: I am the Only Begotten, worship me.

1:20 And it came to pass that Moses began to fear exceedingly; and as he began to fear, he saw the bitterness of hell. Nevertheless, calling upon God, he received strength, and he commanded, saying: Depart from me, Satan, for this one God only will I worship, which is the God of glory.

1:21 And now Satan began to tremble, and the earth shook; and Moses received strength, and called upon God, saying: In the name of the Only Begotten, depart hence, Satan.

1:22 And it came to pass that Satan cried with a loud voice, with weeping, and wailing, and gnashing of teeth; and he departed hence, even from the presence of Moses, that he beheld him not.

Moses testifies of God, calls upon the name of God, and is blessed and called of God

1:23 And now of this thing Moses bore record; but because of wickedness it is not had among the children of men.

1:24 And it came to pass that when Satan had departed from the presence of Moses, that Moses lifted up his eyes unto heaven, being filled with the Holy Ghost, which beareth record of the Father and the Son;

1:25 And calling upon the name of God, he beheld his glory again, for it was upon him; and he heard a voice, saying: Blessed art thou, Moses, for I, the Almighty, have chosen thee, and thou shalt be made stronger than many waters; for they shall obey thy command as if thou wert God.

1:26 And lo, I am with thee, even unto the end of thy days; for thou shalt deliver my people from bondage, even Israel my chosen.

Moses beholds the whole earth, its purposes, the work and glory of God

1:27 And it came to pass, as the voice was still speaking, Moses cast his eyes and beheld the earth, yea, even all of it; and there was not a particle of it which he did not behold, discerning it by the Spirit of God.

1:28 And he beheld also the inhabitants thereof, and there was not a soul which he beheld not; and he discerned them by the Spirit of God; and their numbers were great, even numberless as the sand upon the sea shore.

1:29 And he beheld many lands; and each land was called earth, and there were inhabitants on the face thereof.

DRAFT

1:30 And it came to pass that Moses called upon God, saying: Tell me, I pray thee, why these things are so, and by what thou madest them?

1:31 And behold, the glory of the Lord was upon Moses, so that Moses stood in the presence of God, and talked with him face to face. And the Lord God said unto Moses: For mine own purpose have I made these things. Here is wisdom and it remaineth in me.

1:32 And by the word of my power, have I created them, which is mine Only Begotten Son, who is full of grace and truth.

1:33 And worlds without number have I created; and I also created them for mine own purpose; and by the Son I created them, which is mine Only Begotten.

1:34 And the first man of all men have I called Adam, which is many.

1:35 But only an account of this earth, and the inhabitants thereof, give I unto you. For behold, there are many worlds that have passed away by the word of my power. And there are many that now stand, and innumerable are they unto man; but all things are numbered unto me, for they are mine and I know them.

1:36 And it came to pass that Moses spake unto the Lord, saying: Be merciful unto thy servant, O God, and tell me concerning this earth, and the inhabitants thereof, and also the heavens, and then thy servant will be content.

1:37 And the Lord God spake unto Moses, saying: The heavens, they are many, and they cannot be numbered unto man; but they are numbered unto me; for they are mine.

1:38 And as one earth shall pass away, and the heavens thereof even so shall another come; and there is no end to my works; neither to my words.

1:39 For behold, this is my work and my glory—to bring to pass the immortality and eternal life of man.

Moses commanded to write and keep sacred the words which God shall speak

1:40 And now, Moses, my son, I will speak unto thee concerning this earth upon which thou standest; and thou shalt write the things which I shall speak.

1:41 And in a day when the children of men shall esteem my words as naught and take many of them from the book which thou shalt write, behold, I will raise up another like unto thee; and they shall be had again among the children of men—among as many as shall believe.

1:42 (These words were spoken unto Moses in the mount, the name of which shall not be known among the children of men. And now they are spoken unto you. Show them not unto any except them that believe. Even so. Amen.)

1st Day of Creation: Light and Dark, Day and Night

Moses 2

2:1 (Genesis 1:1, P) And it came to pass that the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: Behold, I reveal unto you concerning this heaven, and this earth; write the words which I speak. I am the Beginning and the End, the Almighty God; by mine Only Begotten I created these things; yea, in the beginning I [God] created the heaven, and the earth upon which thou standest.

2:2 (1:2, P) And the earth was without form, and void; and I caused darkness [was] to come up upon the face of the deep; and my [the] Spirit [of God] moved upon the face of the water[s]; for I am God.

2:3 (1:3, P) And I, God, said: Let there be light; and there was light.

DRAFT

2:4 (1:4, P) And I, God, saw the light; and that light [it] was good. And I, God, divided the light from the darkness.

2:5 (1:5, P) And I, God, called the light Day; and the darkness, I [he] called Night; and this I did by the word of my power, and it was done as I spake; and the evening and the morning were the first day.

2nd Day of Creation: Waters Divided

2:6 (1:6, P) And again, I, God, said: Let there be a firmament in the midst of the water[s], and it was so, even as I spake; and I said: Let it divide the waters from the waters; and it was done;

2:7 (1:7, P) And I, God, made the firmament and divided the waters, yea, the great waters [which were] under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament, and it was so even as I spake.

2:8 (1:8, P) And I, God, called the firmament Heaven; and the evening and the morning were the second day.

3rd Day of Creation: Land and Sea Divided, Plants

2:9 (1:9, P) And I, God, said: Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and it was so; and I, God, said: Let there be [the] dry land [appear]; and it was so.

2:10 (1:10, P) And I, God, called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters, called I [he] the Sea[s]; and I, God, saw that all things which I had made were [it was] good.

2:11 (1:11, P) And I, God, said: Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, the fruit tree yielding fruit, after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed should be [is] in itself upon the earth, and it was so even as I spake.

2:12 (1:12, P) And the earth brought forth grass, [and] every herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed should be [was] in itself, after his kind; and I, God, saw that all things which I had made were [it was] good;

2:13 (1:13, P) And the evening and the morning were the third day.

4th Day of Creation: Celestial Lights Appointed

2:14 (1:14) And I, God, said: Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven, to divide the day from the night, and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and for years;

2:15 (1:15, P) And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth; and it was so.

2:16 (1:16, P) And I, God, made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night, and the greater light was the sun, and the lesser light was the moon; and [he made] the stars also were made even according to my word.

2:17 (1:17, P) And I, God, set them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth,

2:18 (1:18, P) And the sun to rule over the day, and the moon to rule over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness; and I, God, saw that all things which I had made were [it was] good;

2:19 (1:19, P) And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

5th Day of Creation: Sea Creatures and Birds

DRAFT

2:20 (1:20, P) And I, God, said: Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl which [that] may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven.

2:21 (1:21, P) And I, God, created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind; and I, God, saw that all things which I had created were [it was] good.

2:22 (1:22, P) And I, God, blessed them, saying: Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the sea[s]; and let fowl multiply in the earth;

2:23 (1:23, P) And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

6th Day of Creation: Land Animals

2:24 (1:24, P) And I, God, said: Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping things, and beasts of the earth after their [his] kind, and it was so;

2:25 (1:25, P) And I, God, made the beasts of the earth after their [his] kind, and cattle after their kind, and everything which [that] creepeth upon the earth after his kind; and I, God, saw that all these things were [it was] good.

6th Day of Creation: Humanity

2:26 (1:26, P) And I, God, said unto mine Only Begotten, which was with me from the beginning: Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and it was so. And I, God, said: Let them have dominion over the fishes of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

2:27 (1:27, P) And I, God, created man in mine [his] own image, in the image of mine Only Begotten [God] created I [he] him; male and female created I [he] them.

2:28 (1:28, P) And I, God, blessed them, and [God] said unto them: Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it, and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

2:29 (1:29, P) And I, God, said unto man: Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree in the which shall be the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat.

2:30 (1:30, P) And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to everything that creepeth upon the earth, wherein I grant [there is] life, there shall be [I have] given every clean herb for meat; and it was so, even as I spake.

2:31 (1:31, P) And I, God, saw everything that I [he] had made, and, behold, all things which I had made were [it was] very good; and the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

God Rests from Creation

Moses 3

3:1 (Genesis 2:1, P) Thus the heaven[s] and the earth were finished, and all the host of them.

3:2 (2:2, P) And on the seventh day I, God, ended my [his] work, and all things which I [he] had made; and I [he] rested on the seventh day from all my [his] work, and all things which I [he] had made were finished, and I, God, saw that they were good;

3:3 (2:3, P) And I, God, blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it; because that in it I [he] had rested from all my [his] work, which I, God, had created and made.

Creation in Heaven and on Earth

3:4 (2:4, R/J) And now, behold, I say unto you, that these are the generations of the heaven[s] and of the earth, when they were created, in the day that I, the Lord God, made the heaven and the earth [the earth and the heavens],

3:5 (2:5, J) And every plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field before it grew. For I, the Lord God, created all things, of which I have spoken, spiritually, before they were naturally upon the face of the earth. For I, the Lord God, had not caused it to rain upon the face of the earth. And I, the Lord God, had created all the children of men; and [there was] not yet a man to till the ground; for in heaven created I them; and there was not yet flesh upon the earth, neither in the water, neither in the air;

3:6 (2:6, J) But I, the Lord God, spake, and there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

3:7 (2:7, J) And I, the Lord God, formed man from the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul, the first flesh upon the earth, the first man also; nevertheless, all things were before created; but spiritually were they created and made according to my word.

Garden of Eden Planted

3:8 (2:8, J) And I, the Lord God, planted a garden eastward in Eden, and there I [he] put the man whom I [he] had formed.

3:9 (2:9, J) And out of the ground made I, the Lord God, to grow every tree, naturally, that is pleasant to the sight of man; and man could behold it. And it became also a living soul. For it was spiritual in the day that I created it; for it remaineth in the sphere in which I, God, created it, yea, even all things which I prepared for the use of man; and man saw that it was good for food. And I, the Lord God, planted the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and also the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

3:10 (2:10, J) And I, the Lord God, caused a river to go [went] out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads.

3:11 (2:11, J) And I, the Lord God, called the name of the first [is] Pison, and [that is] it [which] compasseth the whole land of Havilah, where I, the Lord God, created much [there is] gold;

3:12 (2:12, J) And the gold of that land was [is] good, and there was [is] bdellium and the onyx stone.

3:13 (2:13, J) And the name of the second river was called [is] Gihon; the same [is it] that compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia.

3:14 (2:14, J) And the name of the third river was [is] Hiddekel; that [is it] which goeth toward the east of Assyria. And the fourth river was the [is] Euphrates.

Man Placed in the Garden and Given Commandments

3:15 (2:15, J) And I, the Lord God, took the man, and put him into the Garden of Eden, to dress it, and to keep it.

3:16 (2:16, J) And I, the Lord God, commanded the man, saying: Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat,

DRAFT

3:17 (2:17, J) But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it, nevertheless, thou mayest choose for thyself, for it is given unto thee; but, remember that I forbid it, for in the day [that] thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.

Creation of Woman

3:18 (2:18, J) And I, the Lord God, said unto mine Only Begotten, that it was [is] not good that the man should be alone; wherefore, I will make [him] an help meet for him.

3:19 (2:19, J) And out of the ground I, the Lord God, formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and commanded that they should come [brought them] unto Adam, to see what he would call them; and they were also living souls; for I, God, breathed into them the breath of life, and commanded that whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that should be [was] the name thereof.

3:20 (2:20, J) And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but as for Adam, there was not found an help meet for him.

3:21 (2:21, J) And I, the Lord God, caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam; and he slept, and I [he] took one of his ribs and closed up the flesh in the stead [instead] thereof;

3:22 (2:22, J) And the rib which I, the Lord God, had taken from man, made I [he] a woman, and brought her unto the man.

3:23 (2:23, J) And Adam said: This I know now is [now] bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh; she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of man.

3:24 (2:24, J) Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one flesh.

3:25 (2:25, J) And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

Flashback: The Premortal Rebellion of Satan

Moses 4

4:1 (-) And I, the Lord God, spake unto Moses, saying: That Satan, whom thou hast commanded in the name of mine Only Begotten, is the same which was from the beginning, and he came before me, saying—Behold, here am I, send me, I will be thy son, and I will redeem all mankind, that one soul shall not be lost, and surely I will do it; wherefore give me thine honor.

4:2 (-) But, behold, my Beloved Son, which was my Beloved and Chosen from the beginning, said unto me—Father, thy will be done, and the glory be thine forever.

4:3 (-) Wherefore, because that Satan rebelled against me, and sought to destroy the agency of man, which I, the Lord God, had given him, and also, that I should give unto him mine own power; by the power of mine Only Begotten, I caused that he should be cast down;

4:4 (-) And he became Satan, yea, even the devil, the father of all lies, to deceive and to blind men, and to lead them captive at his will, even as many as would not hearken unto my voice.

Satan Tempts Eve; Adam and Eve Eat the Fruit

4:5 (3:1, J) And now the serpent was more subtle [subtil] than any beast of the field which I, the Lord God, had made.

DRAFT

4:6 (-) And Satan put it into the heart of the serpent, (for he had drawn away many after him,) and he sought also to beguile Eve, for he knew not the mind of God, wherefore he sought to destroy the world.

4:7 (3:1, J) And he said unto the woman: Yea, hath God said—Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden? (And he spake by the mouth of the serpent.)

4:8 (3:2, J) And the woman said unto the serpent: We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden;

4:9 (3:3, J) But of the fruit of the tree which thou beholdest [is] in the midst of the garden, God hath said—Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die.

4:10 (3:4, J) And the serpent said unto the woman: Ye shall not surely die;

4:11 (3:5, J) For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

4:12 (3:6, J) And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it became [was] pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make her [one] wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and also gave unto her husband with her, and he did eat.

4:13 (3:7, J) And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they had been [were] naked. And they sewed fig leaves together and made themselves aprons.

Adam and Even Hide from God; God Confronts Them

4:14 (3:8, J) And they heard the voice of the Lord God, as they were walking in the garden, in the cool of the day; and Adam and his wife went to hide [hid] themselves from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden.

4:15 (3:9, J) And I, the Lord God, called unto Adam, and said unto him: Where goest [art] thou?

4:16 (3:10, J) And he said: I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I beheld that I was naked, and I hid myself.

4:17 (3:11, J) And I, the Lord God, [he] said unto Adam: Who told thee [that] thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat, if so thou shouldst surely die?

4:18 (3:12, J) And the man said: The woman [whom] thou gavest me, and commandest that she should remain [to be] with me, she gave me of the fruit of the tree and I did eat.

4:19 (3:13, J) And I, the Lord God, said unto the woman: What is this thing which [that] thou hast done? And the woman said: The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

God Pronounces Curses on the Serpent

4:20 (3:14, J) And I, the Lord God, said unto the serpent: Because thou hast done this thou shalt be [art] cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life;

4:21 (3:15, J) And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, [and] between thy seed and her seed; and he [it] shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.

God Pronounces Curses on Adam and Eve

4:22 (3:16, J) Unto the woman, I, the Lord God, [he] said: I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception. In sorrow thou shalt bring forth children, and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee.

DRAFT

4:23 (3:17, J) And unto Adam, I, the Lord God, [he] said: Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the fruit of the tree of which I commanded thee, saying—Thou shalt not eat of it, cursed shall be [is] the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life.

4:24 (3:18, J) Thorns also, and thistles shall it bring forth to thee, and thou shalt eat the herb of the field.

4:25 (3:19, J) By [In] the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, until [till] thou shalt return unto the ground—for thou shalt surely die—for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou wast [art], and unto dust shalt thou return.

Adam and Eve Expelled from the Garden

4:26 (3:20, J) And Adam called his wife's name Eve, because she was the mother of all living; for thus have I, the Lord God, called the first of all women, which are many.

4:27 (3:21, J) Unto Adam, and also unto [to] his wife, did I, the Lord God, make coats of skins, and clothed them.

4:28 (3:22, J) And I, the Lord God, said unto mine Only Begotten: Behold, the man is become as one of us to know good and evil; and now lest he put forth his hand and partake also of the tree of life, and eat and live forever [for ever],

4:29 (3:23, J) Therefore I, the Lord God, will send [sent] him forth from the Garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken;

4:30 (-) For as I, the Lord God, liveth, even so my words cannot return void, for as they go forth out of my mouth they must be fulfilled.

4:31 (3:24, J) So I [he] drove out the man, and I [he] placed at the east of the Garden of Eden, cherubim[s] and a flaming sword, which turned every way to keep the way of the tree of life.

4:32 (-) (And these are the words which I spake unto my servant Moses, and they are true even as I will; and I have spoken them unto you. See thou show them unto no man, until I command you, except to them that believe. Amen.)

Adam and Eve Begin Life outside the Garden

Moses 5

5:1 (-) And it came to pass that after I, the Lord God, had driven them out, that Adam began to till the earth, and to have dominion over all the beasts of the field, and to eat his bread by the sweat of his brow, as I the Lord had commanded him. And Eve, also, his wife, did labor with him.

5:2 (-) And Adam knew his wife, and she bare unto him sons and daughters, and they began to multiply and to replenish the earth.

5:3 (-) And from that time forth, the sons and daughters of Adam began to divide two and two in the land, and to till the land, and to tend flocks, and they also begat sons and daughters.

Adam and Eve Hear God's Voice, Offer Sacrifice, and are Visited by an Angel

5:4 (-) And Adam and Eve, his wife, called upon the name of the Lord, and they heard the voice of the Lord from the way toward the Garden of Eden, speaking unto them, and they saw him not; for they were shut out from his presence.

DRAFT

5:5 (-) And he gave unto them commandments, that they should worship the Lord their God, and should offer the firstlings of their flocks, for an offering unto the Lord. And Adam was obedient unto the commandments of the Lord.

5:6 (-) And after many days an angel of the Lord appeared unto Adam, saying: Why dost thou offer sacrifices unto the Lord? And Adam said unto him: I know not, save the Lord commanded me.

5:7 (-) And then the angel spake, saying: This thing is a similitude of the sacrifice of the Only Begotten of the Father, which is full of grace and truth.

5:8 (-) Wherefore, thou shalt do all that thou doest in the name of the Son, and thou shalt repent and call upon God in the name of the Son forevermore.

Adam and Eve Prophecy

5:9 (-) And in that day the Holy Ghost fell upon Adam, which beareth record of the Father and the Son, saying: I am the Only Begotten of the Father from the beginning, henceforth and forever, that as thou hast fallen thou mayest be redeemed, and all mankind, even as many as will.

5:10 (-) And in that day Adam blessed God and was filled, and began to prophesy concerning all the families of the earth, saying: Blessed be the name of God, for because of my transgression my eyes are opened, and in this life I shall have joy, and again in the flesh I shall see God.

5:11 (-) And Eve, his wife, heard all these things and was glad, saying: Were it not for our transgression we never should have had seed, and never should have known good and evil, and the joy of our redemption, and the eternal life which God giveth unto all the obedient.

Satan and God both Establish their Work among Humanity

5:12 (-) And Adam and Eve blessed the name of God, and they made all things known unto their sons and their daughters.

5:13 (-) And Satan came among them, saying: I am also a son of God; and he commanded them, saying: Believe it not; and they believed it not, and they loved Satan more than God. And men began from that time forth to be carnal, sensual, and devilish.

5:14 (-) And the Lord God called upon men by the Holy Ghost everywhere and commanded them that they should repent;

5:15 (-) And as many as believed in the Son, and repented of their sins, should be saved; and as many as believed not and repented not, should be damned; and the words went forth out of the mouth of God in a firm decree; wherefore they must be fulfilled.

Cain and Abel are Born

5:16 (4:1, J) And Adam and Eve, his wife, ceased not to call upon God. And Adam knew Eve his wife, and she conceived and bare Cain, and said: I have gotten a man from the Lord; wherefore he may not reject his words. But behold, Cain hearkened not, saying: Who is the Lord that I should know him?

5:17 (4:2, J) And she again conceived and bare his brother Abel. And Abel hearkened unto the voice of the Lord. And Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

Satan Commands Cain to Make and Offering; God Rejects it and Warns Cain

5:18 (-) And Cain loved Satan more than God. And Satan commanded him, saying: Make an offering unto the Lord.

5:19 (4:3, J) And in process of time it came to pass that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the Lord.

5:20 (4:4, J) And Abel, he also brought of the firstlings of his flock, and of the fat thereof. And the Lord had respect unto Abel, and to his offering;

5:21 (4:5, J) But unto Cain, and to his offering, he had not respect. Now Satan knew this, and it pleased him. And Cain was very wroth, and his countenance fell.

5:22 (4:6, J) And the Lord said unto Cain: Why art thou wroth? [and] Why is thy countenance fallen?

5:23 (4:7, J) If thou doest well, thou shalt [thou not] be accepted. And if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door, and Satan desireth to have thee; and except thou shalt hearken unto my commandments, I will deliver thee up, and it shall be unto thee according to [shall be] his desire. And thou shalt rule over him;

5:24 (-) For from this time forth thou shalt be the father of his lies; thou shalt be called Perdition; for thou wast also before the world.

5:25 (-) And it shall be said in time to come—That these abominations were had from Cain; for he rejected the greater counsel which was had from God; and this is a cursing which I will put upon thee, except thou repent.

Cain Covenants with Satan

5:26 (-) And Cain was wroth, and listened not any more to the voice of the Lord, neither to Abel, his brother, who walked in holiness before the Lord.

5:27 (-) And Adam and his wife mourned before the Lord, because of Cain and his brethren.

5:28 (-) And it came to pass that Cain took one of his brothers' daughters to wife, and they loved Satan more than God.

5:29 (-) And Satan said unto Cain: Swear unto me by thy throat, and if thou tell it thou shalt die; and swear thy brethren by their heads, and by the living God, that they tell it not; for if they tell it, they shall surely die; and this that thy father may not know it; and this day I will deliver thy brother Abel into thine hands.

5:30 (-) And Satan sware unto Cain that he would do according to his commands. And all these things were done in secret.

5:31 (-) And Cain said: Truly I am Mahan, the master of this great secret, that I may murder and get gain. Wherefore Cain was called Master Mahan, and he gloried in his wickedness.

Cain Murders Abel

5:32 (Genesis 4:8, J) And Cain went into the field, and Cain talked with Abel, his brother. And it came to pass that while [when] they were in the field, [that] Cain rose up against Abel, his brother, and slew him.

5:33 (-) And Cain gloried in that which he had done, saying: I am free; surely the flocks of my brother falleth into my hands.

God Confronts and Curses Cain

DRAFT

5:34 (4:9, J) And the Lord said unto Cain: Where is Abel, thy brother? And he said: I know not. Am I my brother's keeper?

5:35 (4:10, J) And the Lord [he] said: What hast thou done? The voice of thy brother's blood cries [crieth] unto me from the ground.

5:36 (4:11, J) And now [art] thou shalt be cursed from the earth which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand.

5:37 (4:12, J) When thou tillest the ground it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength. A fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth.

5:38 (4:13, J) And Cain said unto the Lord: Satan tempted me because of my brother's flocks. And I was wroth also; for his offering thou didst accept and not mine; my punishment is greater than I can bear.

5:39 (4:14, J) Behold thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the Lord [earth], and from thy face shall I be hid; and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall come to pass, that he [every one] that findeth me will [shall] slay me, because of mine iniquities, for these things are not hid from the Lord.

5:40 (4:15, J) And I the Lord said unto him: [Therefore] Whosoever slayeth thee [Cain], vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold. And I the Lord set a mark upon Cain, lest any finding him should kill him.

Cain is Exiled and Has Descendants

5:41 (4:16, J) And Cain was shut out [went out] from the presence of the Lord, and with his wife and many of his brethren dwell in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden.

5:42 (4:17, J) And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived and bare Enoch, and he also begat many sons and daughters. And he builded a city, and he called the name of the city after the name of his son, Enoch.

5:43 (4:18, J) And unto Enoch was born Irad, and other sons and daughters. And Irad begat Mahujael, and other sons and daughters. And Mahujael begat Methusael, and other sons and daughters. And Methusael begat Lamech.

Lamech's Descendants and Murder

5:44 (4:19, J) And Lamech took unto himself two wives; the name of [the] one being [was] Adah, and the name of the other, Zillah.

5:45 (4:20–21, J) And Adah bare Jabal; he was the father of such as dwell in tents, and they were keepers of [of such as have] cattle; and his brother's name was Jubal, who [he] was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ.

5:46 (4:22, J) And Zillah, she also bare Tubal Cain, an instructor [instructor] of every artificer in brass and iron. And the sister of Tubal Cain was called Naamah.

5:47 (4:23, J) And Lamech said unto his wives, Adah and Zillah: Hear my voice, ye wives of Lamech, hearken unto my speech; for I have slain a man to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt.

5:48 (4:24, J) If Cain shall be avenged sevenfold, truly Lamech shall be seventy and seven fold;

Lamech's Covenant with Satan; He is Cursed and Rejected

DRAFT

5:49 (-) For Lamech having entered into a covenant with Satan, after the manner of Cain, wherein he became Master Mahan, master of that great secret which was administered unto Cain by Satan; and Irad, the son of Enoch, having known their secret, began to reveal it unto the sons of Adam;

5:50 (-) Wherefore Lamech, being angry, slew him, not like unto Cain, his brother Abel, for the sake of getting gain, but he slew him for the oath's sake.

5:51 (-) For, from the days of Cain, there was a secret combination, and their works were in the dark, and they knew every man his brother.

5:52 (-) Wherefore the Lord cursed Lamech, and his house, and all them that had covenanted with Satan; for they kept not the commandments of God, and it displeased God, and he ministered not unto them, and their works were abominations, and began to spread among all the sons of men. And it was among the sons of men.

5:53 (-) And among the daughters of men these things were not spoken, because that Lamech had spoken the secret unto his wives, and they rebelled against him, and declared these things abroad, and had not compassion;

5:54 (-) Wherefore Lamech was despised, and cast out, and came not among the sons of men, lest he should die.

The Gospel is Preached to a Wicked Mankind

5:55 (-) And thus the works of darkness began to prevail among all the sons of men.

5:56 (-) And God cursed the earth with a sore curse, and was angry with the wicked, with all the sons of men whom he had made;

5:57 (-) For they would not hearken unto his voice, nor believe on his Only Begotten Son, even him whom he declared should come in the meridian of time, who was prepared from before the foundation of the world.

5:58 (-) And thus the Gospel began to be preached, from the beginning, being declared by holy angels sent forth from the presence of God, and by his own voice, and by the gift of the Holy Ghost.

5:59 (-) And thus all things were confirmed unto Adam, by an holy ordinance, and the Gospel preached, and a decree sent forth, that it should be in the world, until the end thereof; and thus it was. Amen.

Moses 6

6:1 (-) And Adam hearkened unto the voice of God, and called upon his sons to repent.

Seth and Enos are Born; Adam's Genealogy Maintained

6:2 (Genesis 4:25, R) And Adam knew his wife again, and she bare a son, and he called his name Seth. And Adam glorified the name of God; for he said: [For] God [said she] hath appointed me another seed, instead of Abel, whom Cain slew.

6:3 (4:26, R) And God revealed himself unto Seth, and he rebelled not, but offered an acceptable sacrifice, like unto his brother Abel. And to [Seth, to] him also was born a son, and he called his name Enos.

6:4 (4:26, J) And then began these men to call upon the name of the Lord, and the Lord blessed them;

DRAFT

6:5 (-) And a book of remembrance was kept, in the which was recorded, in the language of Adam, for it was given unto as many as called upon God to write by the spirit of inspiration;

6:6 (-) And by them their children were taught to read and write, having a language which was pure and undefiled.

6:7 (-) Now this same Priesthood, which was in the beginning, shall be in the end of the world also.

6:8 (5:1) Now this prophecy Adam spake, as he was moved upon by the Holy Ghost, and a genealogy was kept of the children of God. And this was [is] the book of the generations of Adam, saying: In the day that God created man, in the likeness of God made he him;

6:9 (5:2) In the image of his own body, male and female, created he them, and blessed them, and called their name Adam, in the day when they were created and became living souls in the land upon the footstool of God.

Adam and Seth Die

6:10 (5:3) And Adam lived one [an] hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his own likeness, after his own image, and called his name Seth.

6:11 (5:4) And the days of Adam, after he had begotten Seth, were eight hundred years, and he begat many sons and daughters;

6:12 (5:5) And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died.

6:13 (5:6) Seth lived one [an] hundred and five years, and begat Enos, and prophesied in all his days, and taught his son Enos in the ways of God; wherefore Enos prophesied also.

6:14 (5:7) And Seth lived, after he begat Enos, eight hundred and seven years, and begat many sons and daughters.

6:15 (-) And the children of men were numerous upon all the face of the land. And in those days Satan had great dominion among men, and raged in their hearts; and from thenceforth came wars and bloodshed; and a man's hand was against his own brother, in administering death, because of secret works, seeking for power.

6:16 (5:8) [And] All the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years, and he died.

Adam's Descendants: Enos to Methuselah

6:17 (5:9) And Enos lived ninety years, and begat Cainan. And Enos and the residue of the people of God came out from the land, which was called Shulon, and dwelt in a land of promise, which he called after his own son, whom he had named Cainan.

6:18 (5:10–11) And Enos lived, after he begat Cainan, eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat many sons and daughters. And all the days of Enos were nine hundred and five years, and he died.

6:19 (5:12–14) And Cainan lived seventy years, and begat Mahalaleel; and Cainan lived after he begat Mahalaleel eight hundred and forty years, and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years, and he died.

6:20 (5:15–17) And Mahalaleel lived sixty- [and] five years, and begat Jared; and Mahalaleel lived, after he begat Jared, eight hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Mahalaleel were eight hundred and ninety- [and] five years, and he died.

DRAFT

6:21 (5:18–19) And Jared lived one [an] hundred and sixty- [and] two years, and begat Enoch; and Jared lived, after he begat Enoch, eight hundred years, and begat sons and daughters. And Jared taught Enoch in all the ways of God.

6:22 (-) And this is the genealogy of the sons of Adam, who was the son of God, with whom God, himself, conversed.

6:23 (-) And they were preachers of righteousness, and spake and prophesied, and called upon all men, everywhere, to repent; and faith was taught unto the children of men.

6:24 (5:20) And it came to pass that all the days of Jared were nine hundred and sixty- [and] two years, and he died.

6:25 (5:21) And Enoch lived sixty- [and] five years, and begat Methuselah.

God Commissions Enoch to Preach Repentance

6:26 And it came to pass that Enoch journeyed in the land, among the people; and as he journeyed, the Spirit of God descended out of heaven, and abode upon him.

6:27 (-) And he heard a voice from heaven, saying: Enoch, my son, prophesy unto this people, and say unto them—Repent, for thus saith the Lord: I am angry with this people, and my fierce anger is kindled against them; for their hearts have waxed hard, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes cannot see afar off;

6:28 (-) And for these many generations, ever since the day that I created them, have they gone astray, and have denied me, and have sought their own counsels in the dark; and in their own abominations have they devised murder, and have not kept the commandments, which I gave unto their father, Adam.

6:29 (-) Wherefore, they have foresworn themselves, and, by their oaths, they have brought upon themselves death; and a hell I have prepared for them, if they repent not;

6:30 (-) And this is a decree, which I have sent forth in the beginning of the world, from my own mouth, from the foundation thereof, and by the mouths of my servants, thy fathers, have I decreed it, even as it shall be sent forth in the world, unto the ends thereof.

Enoch Resists His Call; God Reassures Him and Makes Him a Seer

6:31 (-) And when Enoch had heard these words, he bowed himself to the earth, before the Lord, and spake before the Lord, saying: Why is it that I have found favor in thy sight, and am but a lad, and all the people hate me; for I am slow of speech; wherefore am I thy servant?

6:32 (-) And the Lord said unto Enoch: Go forth and do as I have commanded thee, and no man shall pierce thee. Open thy mouth, and it shall be filled, and I will give thee utterance, for all flesh is in my hands, and I will do as seemeth me good.

6:33 (-) Say unto this people: Choose ye this day, to serve the Lord God who made you.

6:34 (-) Behold my Spirit is upon you, wherefore all thy words will I justify; and the mountains shall flee before you, and the rivers shall turn from their course; and thou shalt abide in me, and I in you; therefore walk with me.

6:35 (-) And the Lord spake unto Enoch, and said unto him: Anoint thine eyes with clay, and wash them, and thou shalt see. And he did so.

6:36 (-) And he beheld the spirits that God had created; and he beheld also things which were not visible to the natural eye; and from thenceforth came the saying abroad in the land: A seer hath the Lord raised up unto his people.

Enoch Begins to Prophecy

6:37 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch went forth in the land, among the people, standing upon the hills and the high places, and cried with a loud voice, testifying against their works; and all men were offended because of him.

6:38 (-) And they came forth to hear him, upon the high places, saying unto the tent-keepers: Tarry ye here and keep the tents, while we go yonder to behold the seer, for he prophesieth, and there is a strange thing in the land; a wild man hath come among us.

6:39 (-) And it came to pass when they heard him, no man laid hands on him; for fear came on all them that heard him; for he walked with God.

6:40 (-) And there came a man unto him, whose name was Mahijah, and said unto him: Tell us plainly who thou art, and from whence thou comest?

6:41 (-) And he said unto them: I came out from the land of Cainan, the land of my fathers, a land of righteousness unto this day. And my father taught me in all the ways of God.

6:42 (-) And it came to pass, as I journeyed from the land of Cainan, by the sea east, I beheld a vision; and lo, the heavens I saw, and the Lord spake with me, and gave me commandment; wherefore, for this cause, to keep the commandment, I speak forth these words.

Enoch Teaches: Deny not God

6:43 (-) And Enoch continued his speech, saying: The Lord which spake with me, the same is the God of heaven, and he is my God, and your God, and ye are my brethren, and why counsel ye yourselves, and deny the God of heaven?

6:44 (-) The heavens he made; the earth is his footstool; and the foundation thereof is his. Behold, he laid it, an host of men hath he brought in upon the face thereof.

6:45 (-) And death hath come upon our fathers; nevertheless we know them, and cannot deny, and even the first of all we know, even Adam.

6:46 (-) For a book of remembrance we have written among us, according to the pattern given by the finger of God; and it is given in our own language.

6:47 (-) And as Enoch spake forth the words of God, the people trembled, and could not stand in his presence.

Enoch Teaches: Man is Fallen; the Gospel Revealed to Adam

6:48 (-) And he said unto them: Because that Adam fell, we are; and by his fall came death; and we are made partakers of misery and woe.

6:49 (-) Behold Satan hath come among the children of men, and tempteth them to worship him; and men have become carnal, sensual, and devilish, and are shut out from the presence of God.

6:50 (-) But God hath made known unto our fathers that all men must repent.

6:51 (-) And he called upon our father Adam by his own voice, saying: I am God; I made the world, and men before they were in the flesh.

6:52 (-) And he also said unto him: If thou wilt turn unto me, and hearken unto my voice, and believe, and repent of all thy transgressions, and be baptized, even in water, in the name of mine Only Begotten Son, who is full of grace and truth, which is Jesus Christ, the only name which shall be given under heaven, whereby salvation shall come unto the children of men, ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost, asking all things in his name, and whatsoever ye shall ask, it shall be given you.

6:53 (-) And our father Adam spake unto the Lord, and said: Why is it that men must repent and be baptized in water? And the Lord said unto Adam: Behold I have forgiven thee thy transgression in the Garden of Eden.

Enoch Teaches: Atonement Comes through the Son of God; Baptism Explained

6:54 (-) Hence came the saying abroad among the people, that the Son of God hath atoned for original guilt, wherein the sins of the parents cannot be answered upon the heads of the children, for they are whole from the foundation of the world.

6:55 (-) And the Lord spake unto Adam, saying: Inasmuch as thy children are conceived in sin, even so when they begin to grow up, sin conceiveth in their hearts, and they taste the bitter, that they may know to prize the good.

6:56 (-) And it is given unto them to know good from evil; wherefore they are agents unto themselves, and I have given unto you another law and commandment.

6:57 (-) Wherefore teach it unto your children, that all men, everywhere, must repent, or they can in nowise inherit the kingdom of God, for no unclean thing can dwell there, or dwell in his presence; for, in the language of Adam, Man of Holiness is his name, and the name of his Only Begotten is the Son of Man, even Jesus Christ, a righteous Judge, who shall come in the meridian of time.

6:58 (-) Therefore I give unto you a commandment, to teach these things freely unto your children, saying:

6:59 (-) That by reason of transgression cometh the fall, which fall bringeth death, and inasmuch as ye were born into the world by water, and blood, and the spirit, which I have made, and so became of dust a living soul, even so ye must be born again into the kingdom of heaven, of water, and of the Spirit, and be cleansed by blood, even the blood of mine Only Begotten; that ye might be sanctified from all sin, and enjoy the words of eternal life in this world, and eternal life in the world to come, even immortal glory;

6:60 (-) For by the water ye keep the commandment; by the Spirit ye are justified, and by the blood ye are sanctified;

6:61 (-) Therefore it is given to abide in you; the record of heaven; the Comforter; the peaceable things of immortal glory; the truth of all things; that which quickeneth all things, which maketh alive all things; that which knoweth all things, and hath all power according to wisdom, mercy, truth, justice, and judgment.

6:62 (-) And now, behold, I say unto you: This is the plan of salvation unto all men, through the blood of mine Only Begotten, who shall come in the meridian of time.

6:63 (-) And behold, all things have their likeness, and all things are created and made to bear record of me, both things which are temporal, and things which are spiritual; things which are in the heavens above, and things which are on the earth, and things which are in the earth, and things which are under the earth, both above and beneath: all things bear record of me.

Enoch Teaches: Adam's Baptism

DRAFT

6:64 (-) And it came to pass, when the Lord had spoken with Adam, our father, that Adam cried unto the Lord, and he was caught away by the Spirit of the Lord, and was carried down into the water, and was laid under the water, and was brought forth out of the water.

6:65 (-) And thus he was baptized, and the Spirit of God descended upon him, and thus he was born of the Spirit, and became quickened in the inner man.

6:66 (-) And he heard a voice out of heaven, saying: Thou art baptized with fire, and with the Holy Ghost. This is the record of the Father, and the Son, from henceforth and forever;

6:67 (-) And thou art after the order of him who was without beginning of days or end of years, from all eternity to all eternity.

6:68 (-) Behold, thou art one in me, a son of God; and thus may all become my sons. Amen.

Moses 7 (no Genesis equivalents)

7:1 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch continued his speech, saying: Behold, our father Adam taught these things, and many have believed and become the sons of God, and many have believed not, and have perished in their sins, and are looking forth with fear, in torment, for the fiery indignation of the wrath of God to be poured out upon them.

God Calls Enoch to Mount Simeon

7:2 (-) And from that time forth Enoch began to prophesy, saying unto the people, that: As I was journeying, and stood upon the place Mahujah, and cried unto the Lord, there came a voice out of heaven, saying—Turn ye, and get ye upon the mount Simeon.

7:3 (-) And it came to pass that I turned and went up on the mount; and as I stood upon the mount, I beheld the heavens open, and I was clothed upon with glory;

7:4 (-) And I saw the Lord; and he stood before my face, and he talked with me, even as a man talketh one with another, face to face; and he said unto me: Look, and I will show unto thee the world for the space of many generations.

Enoch Prophecies against the People of Canaan

7:5 (-) And it came to pass that I beheld in the valley of Shum, and lo, a great people which dwelt in tents, which were the people of Shum.

7:6 (-) And again the Lord said unto me: Look; and I looked towards the north, and I beheld the people of Canaan, which dwelt in tents.

7:7 (-) And the Lord said unto me: Prophecy; and I prophesied, saying: Behold the people of Canaan, which are numerous, shall go forth in battle array against the people of Shum, and shall slay them that they shall utterly be destroyed; and the people of Canaan shall divide themselves in the land, and the land shall be barren and unfruitful, and none other people shall dwell there but the people of Canaan;

7:8 (-) For behold, the Lord shall curse the land with much heat, and the barrenness thereof shall go forth forever; and there was a blackness came upon all the children of Canaan, that they were despised among all people.

Enoch Prophecies against Other Peoples

7:9 (-) And it came to pass that the Lord said unto me: Look; and I looked, and I beheld the land of Sharon, and the land of Enoch, and the land of Omner, and the land of Heni, and the land of Shem, and the land of Haner, and the land of Hanannah, and all the inhabitants thereof;

7:10 (-) And the Lord said unto me: Go to this people, and say unto them—Repent, lest I come out and smite them with a curse, and they die.

7:11 (-) And he gave unto me a commandment that I should baptize in the name of the Father, and of the Son, which is full of grace and truth, and of the Holy Ghost, which beareth record of the Father and the Son.

Enoch Leads the People of God; God Dwells with His People

7:12 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch continued to call upon all the people, save it were the people of Canaan, to repent;

7:13 (-) And so great was the faith of Enoch that he led the people of God, and their enemies came to battle against them; and he spake the word of the Lord, and the earth trembled, and the mountains fled, even according to his command; and the rivers of water were turned out of their course; and the roar of the lions was heard out of the wilderness; and all nations feared greatly, so powerful was the word of Enoch, and so great was the power of the language which God had given him.

7:14 (-) There also came up a land out of the depth of the sea, and so great was the fear of the enemies of the people of God, that they fled and stood afar off and went upon the land which came up out of the depth of the sea.

7:15 (-) And the giants of the land, also, stood afar off; and there went forth a curse upon all people that fought against God;

7:16 (-) And from that time forth there were wars and bloodshed among them; but the Lord came and dwelt with his people, and they dwelt in righteousness.

7:17 (-) The fear of the Lord was upon all nations, so great was the glory of the Lord, which was upon his people. And the Lord blessed the land, and they were blessed upon the mountains, and upon the high places, and did flourish.

7:18 (-) And the Lord called his people Zion, because they were of one heart and one mind, and dwelt in righteousness; and there was no poor among them.

7:19 (-) And Enoch continued his preaching in righteousness unto the people of God. And it came to pass in his days, that he built a city that was called the City of Holiness, even Zion.

7:20 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch talked with the Lord; and he said unto the Lord: Surely Zion shall dwell in safety forever. But the Lord said unto Enoch: Zion have I blessed, but the residue of the people have I cursed.

Enoch Sees the Earth's Inhabitants; Zion is Taken into Heaven

7:21 (-) And it came to pass that the Lord showed unto Enoch all the inhabitants of the earth; and he beheld, and lo, Zion, in process of time, was taken up into heaven. And the Lord said unto Enoch: Behold mine abode forever.

7:22 (-) And Enoch also beheld the residue of the people which were the sons of Adam; and they were a mixture of all the seed of Adam save it was the seed of Cain, for the seed of Cain were black, and had not place among them.

7:23 (-) And after that Zion was taken up into heaven, Enoch beheld, and lo, all the nations of the earth were before him;

Enoch's Vision: God Weeps at the World's Wickedness

7:24(-) And there came generation upon generation; and Enoch was high and lifted up, even in the bosom of the Father, and of the Son of Man; and behold, the power of Satan was upon all the face of the earth.

7:25 (-) And he saw angels descending out of heaven; and he heard a loud voice saying: Wo, wo be unto the inhabitants of the earth.

7:26 (-) And he beheld Satan; and he had a great chain in his hand, and it veiled the whole face of the earth with darkness; and he looked up and laughed, and his angels rejoiced.

7:27 (-) And Enoch beheld angels descending out of heaven, bearing testimony of the Father and Son; and the Holy Ghost fell on many, and they were caught up by the powers of heaven into Zion.

7:28 (-) And it came to pass that the God of heaven looked upon the residue of the people, and he wept; and Enoch bore record of it, saying: How is it that the heavens weep, and shed forth their tears as the rain upon the mountains?

7:29 (-) And Enoch said unto the Lord: How is it that thou canst weep, seeing thou art holy, and from all eternity to all eternity?

7:30 (-) And were it possible that man could number the particles of the earth, yea, millions of earths like this, it would not be a beginning to the number of thy creations; and thy curtains are stretched out still; and yet thou art there, and thy bosom is there; and also thou art just; thou art merciful and kind forever;

7:31 (-) And thou hast taken Zion to thine own bosom, from all thy creations, from all eternity to all eternity; and naught but peace, justice, and truth is the habitation of thy throne; and mercy shall go before thy face and have no end; how is it thou canst weep?

Enoch's Vision: God's Sorrow and Anger; Doom Awaits His Creations

7:32 (-) The Lord said unto Enoch: Behold these thy brethren; they are the workmanship of mine own hands, and I gave unto them their knowledge, in the day I created them; and in the Garden of Eden, gave I unto man his agency;

7:33 (-) And unto thy brethren have I said, and also given commandment, that they should love one another, and that they should choose me, their Father; but behold, they are without affection, and they hate their own blood;

7:34 (-) And the fire of mine indignation is kindled against them; and in my hot displeasure will I send in the floods upon them, for my fierce anger is kindled against them.

7:35 (-) Behold, I am God; Man of Holiness is my name; Man of Counsel is my name; and Endless and Eternal is my name, also.

7:36 (-) Wherefore, I can stretch forth mine hands and hold all the creations which I have made; and mine eye can pierce them also, and among all the workmanship of mine hands there has not been so great wickedness as among thy brethren.

7:37 (-) But behold, their sins shall be upon the heads of their fathers; Satan shall be their father, and misery shall be their doom; and the whole heavens shall weep over them, even all the workmanship of mine hands; wherefore should not the heavens weep, seeing these shall suffer?

DRAFT

7:38 (-) But behold, these which thine eyes are upon shall perish in the floods; and behold, I will shut them up; a prison have I prepared for them.

7:39 (-) And that which I have chosen hath pled before my face. Wherefore, he suffereth for their sins; inasmuch as they will repent in the day that my Chosen shall return unto me, and until that day they shall be in torment;

7:40 (-) Wherefore, for this shall the heavens weep, yea, and all the workmanship of mine hands.

Enoch's Vision: Noah and the Flood

7:41 (-) And it came to pass that the Lord spake unto Enoch, and told Enoch all the doings of the children of men; wherefore Enoch knew, and looked upon their wickedness, and their misery, and wept and stretched forth his arms, and his heart swelled wide as eternity; and his bowels yearned; and all eternity shook.

7:42 (-) And Enoch also saw Noah, and his family; that the posterity of all the sons of Noah should be saved with a temporal salvation;

7:43 (-) Wherefore Enoch saw that Noah built an ark; and that the Lord smiled upon it, and held it in his own hand; but upon the residue of the wicked the floods came and swallowed them up.

7:44 (-) And as Enoch saw this, he had bitterness of soul, and wept over his brethren, and said unto the heavens: I will refuse to be comforted; but the Lord said unto Enoch: Lift up your heart, and be glad; and look.

Enoch's Vision: The Coming of the Son of Man

7:45 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch looked; and from Noah, he beheld all the families of the earth; and he cried unto the Lord, saying: When shall the day of the Lord come? When shall the blood of the Righteous be shed, that all they that mourn may be sanctified and have eternal life?

7:46 (-) And the Lord said: It shall be in the meridian of time, in the days of wickedness and vengeance.

7:47 (-) And behold, Enoch saw the day of the coming of the Son of Man, even in the flesh; and his soul rejoiced, saying: The Righteous is lifted up, and the Lamb is slain from the foundation of the world; and through faith I am in the bosom of the Father, and behold, Zion is with me.

Enoch's Vision: The Earth Mourns; God Covenants to Stay the Flood and Preserve Enoch's Seed

7:48 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch looked upon the earth; and he heard a voice from the bowels thereof, saying: Wo, wo is me, the mother of men; I am pained, I am weary, because of the wickedness of my children. When shall I rest, and be cleansed from the filthiness which is gone forth out of me? When will my Creator sanctify me, that I may rest, and righteousness for a season abide upon my face?

7:49 (-) And when Enoch heard the earth mourn, he wept, and cried unto the Lord, saying: O Lord, wilt thou not have compassion upon the earth? Wilt thou not bless the children of Noah?

DRAFT

7:50 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch continued his cry unto the Lord, saying: I ask thee, O Lord, in the name of thine Only Begotten, even Jesus Christ, that thou wilt have mercy upon Noah and his seed, that the earth might never more be covered by the floods.

7:51 (-) And the Lord could not withhold; and he covenanted with Enoch, and swore unto him with an oath, that he would stay the floods; that he would call upon the children of Noah;

7:52 (-) And he sent forth an unalterable decree, that a remnant of his seed should always be found among all nations, while the earth should stand;

7:53 (-) And the Lord said: Blessed is he through whose seed Messiah shall come; for he saith— I am Messiah, the King of Zion, the Rock of Heaven, which is broad as eternity; whoso cometh in at the gate and climbeth up by me shall never fall; wherefore, blessed are they of whom I have spoken, for they shall come forth with songs of everlasting joy.

Enoch's Vision: The Death of the Son of Man

7:54 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch cried unto the Lord, saying: When the Son of Man cometh in the flesh, shall the earth rest? I pray thee, show me these things.

7:55 (-) And the Lord said unto Enoch: Look, and he looked and beheld the Son of Man lifted up on the cross, after the manner of men;

7:56 (-) And he heard a loud voice; and the heavens were veiled; and all the creations of God mourned; and the earth groaned; and the rocks were rent; and the saints arose, and were crowned at the right hand of the Son of Man, with crowns of glory;

7:57 (-) And as many of the spirits as were in prison came forth, and stood on the right hand of God; and the remainder were reserved in chains of darkness until the judgment of the great day.

Enoch's Vision: God Promises the Return of Zion and Millennial Rest

7:58 (-) And again Enoch wept and cried unto the Lord, saying: When shall the earth rest?

7:59 (-) And Enoch beheld the Son of Man ascend up unto the Father; and he called unto the Lord, saying: Wilt thou not come again upon the earth? Forasmuch as thou art God, and I know thee, and thou hast sworn unto me, and commanded me that I should ask in the name of thine Only Begotten; thou hast made me, and given unto me a right to thy throne, and not of myself, but through thine own grace; wherefore, I ask thee if thou wilt not come again on the earth.

7:60 (-) And the Lord said unto Enoch: As I live, even so will I come in the last days, in the days of wickedness and vengeance, to fulfil the oath which I have made unto you concerning the children of Noah;

7:61 (-) And the day shall come that the earth shall rest, but before that day the heavens shall be darkened, and a veil of darkness shall cover the earth; and the heavens shall shake, and also the earth; and great tribulations shall be among the children of men, but my people will I preserve;

7:62 (-) And righteousness will I send down out of heaven; and truth will I send forth out of the earth, to bear testimony of mine Only Begotten; his resurrection from the dead; yea, and also the resurrection of all men; and righteousness and truth will I cause to sweep the earth as with a flood, to gather out mine elect from the four quarters of the earth, unto a place which I shall prepare, an Holy City, that my people may gird up their loins, and be looking forth for the time of my coming; for there shall be my tabernacle, and it shall be called Zion, a New Jerusalem.

7:63 (-) And the Lord said unto Enoch: Then shalt thou and all thy city meet them there, and we will receive them into our bosom, and they shall see us; and we will fall upon their necks, and they shall fall upon our necks, and we will kiss each other;

64 (-) And there shall be mine abode, and it shall be Zion, which shall come forth out of all the creations which I have made; and for the space of a thousand years the earth shall rest.

Enoch's Vision: The End of the World

7:65 (-) And it came to pass that Enoch saw the day of the coming of the Son of Man, in the last days, to dwell on the earth in righteousness for the space of a thousand years;

7:66 (-) But before that day he saw great tribulations among the wicked; and he also saw the sea, that it was troubled, and men's hearts failing them, looking forth with fear for the judgments of the Almighty God , which should come upon the wicked.

7:67 (-) And the Lord showed Enoch all things, even unto the end of the world ; and he saw the day of the righteous, the hour of their redemption , and received a fulness of joy;

God Receives Zion

7:68 (-) And all the days of Zion, in the days of Enoch, were three hundred and sixty-five years.

7:69 (-) And Enoch and all his people walked with God, and he dwelt in the midst of Zion; and it came to pass that Zion was not, for God received it up into his own bosom; and from thence went forth the saying, Zion is Fled.

Moses 8

8:1 (Genesis 5:23) And all the days of Enoch were four hundred and thirty [three hundred sixty and five] years.

Methuselah Prophecies about the Covenant, Begets Lamech, and Dies; Famine

8:2 (-) And it came to pass that Methuselah, the son of Enoch, was not taken, that the covenants of the Lord might be fulfilled, which he made to Enoch; for he truly covenanted with Enoch that Noah should be of the fruit of his loins.

8:3 (-) And it came to pass that Methuselah prophesied that from his loins should spring all the kingdoms of the earth (through Noah), and he took glory unto himself.

8:4 (-) And there came forth a great famine into the land, and the Lord cursed the earth with a sore curse , and many of the inhabitants thereof died.

8:5 (5:25) And it came to pass that Methuselah lived one [an] hundred and eighty- [and] seven years, and begat Lamech;

8:6 (5:26) And Methuselah lived, after he begat Lamech, seven hundred and eighty- [and] two years, and begat sons and daughters;

8:7 (5:27) And all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred and sixty- [and] nine years, and he died.

Noah is Born; His Family is Righteous

8:8 (5:28) And Lamech lived one [an] hundred and eighty- [and] two years, and begat a son,

DRAFT

8:9 (5:29, R) And he called his name Noah, saying: This son [same] shall comfort us concerning our work and toil of our hands, because of the ground which the Lord hath cursed.

8:10 (5:30) And Lamech lived, after he begat Noah, five hundred and ninety- [and] five years, and begat sons and daughters;

8:11 (5:31) And all the days of Lamech were seven hundred and seventy- [and] seven years, and he died.

8:12 (5:32) And Noah was four hundred and fifty [five hundred] years old, and [Noah] begat [Shem, Ham, and] Japheth; and forty-two years afterward he begat Shem of her who was the mother of Japheth, and when he was five hundred years old he begat Ham.

8:13 (-) And Noah and his sons hearkened unto the Lord, and gave heed, and they were called the sons of God.

Humanity Becomes Wicked; God Ordains Noah; Noah Teaches and is Rejected

8:14 (Genesis 6:1–2, J) And [it came to pass] when these men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, [that] the sons of men saw that [the] those daughters [of men that they] were fair, and they took them wives, even as [of which] they chose.

8:15 (-) And the Lord said unto Noah: The daughters of thy sons have sold themselves; for behold mine anger is kindled against the sons of men, for they will not hearken to my voice.

8:16 (-) And it came to pass that Noah prophesied, and taught the things of God, even as it was in the beginning.

8:17 (6:3, J) And the Lord said unto Noah: My Spirit shall not always strive with man, for he shall know that all [that he also is] flesh shall die; yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years; and if men do not repent, I will send in the floods upon them.

8:18 (6:4, J) And in those days there were giants on [in] the earth [in those days], and they sought Noah to take away his life; but the Lord was with Noah, and the power of the Lord was upon him.

8:19 (-) And the Lord ordained Noah after his own order, and commanded him that he should go forth and declare his Gospel unto the children of men, even as it was given unto Enoch.

8:20 (-) And it came to pass that Noah called upon the children of men that they should repent; but they hearkened not unto his words;

8:21 (6:4, J) And also, after that [when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men] they had heard him, they came up before him, saying: Behold, we are the sons of God; have we not taken unto ourselves the daughters of men? And are we not eating and drinking, and marrying and giving in marriage? And our wives bear unto us [they bare] children [to them], and the same are [became] mighty men, which are like unto men [were] of old, men of great renown. And they hearkened not unto the words of Noah.

8:22 (6:5, J) And God saw that the wickedness of men had become [was] great in the earth; and [that] every man was lifted up in the imagination of the thoughts of his heart, being [was] only evil continually.

8:23 (-) And it came to pass that Noah continued his preaching unto the people, saying: Hearken, and give heed unto my words;

8:24 (-) Believe and repent of your sins and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ, the Son of God, even as our fathers, and ye shall receive the Holy Ghost, that ye may have all things

God Resolves to Destroy Mankind

8:25 (Genesis 6:6, J) And it repented Noah [the Lord], and his heart was pained that the Lord [he] had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at the [his] heart.

8:26 (6:7, J) And the Lord said: I will destroy man whom I have created, from the face of the earth, both man and beast, and the creeping things, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth Noah [me] that I have created them, and that I have made them; and he hath called upon me; for they have sought his life.

8:27 (6:8–10, J/R/P) And thus [But] Noah found grace in the eyes of the Lord; [These are the generations of Noah:] for Noah was a just man, and perfect in his generation[s]; and he [Noah] walked with God, as did also his [And Noah begat] three sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

8:28 (6:11, P) The earth [also] was corrupt before God, and it [the earth] was filled with violence.

8:29 (6:12, P) And God looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt, for all flesh had corrupted its [his] way upon the earth.

8:30 (6:13, P) And God said unto Noah: The end of all flesh is come before me, for the earth is filled with violence [through them], and behold I will destroy all flesh [them] from off [with] the earth.
